NEW SNOWSTORMS HIT MARITIMES, MIDWEST

HALIFAX (CP)—A howling new storm funnelled into the Maritime provinces out of the Atlantic Ocean today, cutting communications and halting traffic.

Telephone, telegraph and cable communication between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland was disrupted.

CHICAGO (AP)—A blinding snowstorm swept across sections of the midwestern and southern United States today. At least two sizeable cities were virtually paralyzed. Small towns were isolated. Roads were blocked and schools were closed.

U.S. SCHEME HELD TOO COSTLY

Go Slow Decision On Pension Plan

BY TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Health Minister Waldo Monteith has strongly indicated the government does not feel Canadians can afford an old age security program equivalent to that of the United States.

In a policy statement on the Clark Report on the U.S. social security system, the minister held out little hope that any changes would be made in the Canadian system of old age pensions for some years.

6% TOTAL

Mr. Monteith said the U.S. program is based on 3 per cent contributions from both employers and employees, totalling 6 per cent of an individual's pay cheque.

"If we were to accept the fact that the average per capita income of Canadians, including those in their active working years, is 30 per cent below that in the U.S., the question that presents itself is this:

"How can we expect, other than establishing contribution rates that are proportionately higher, to achieve a level of pension benefits equal to the American level?"

30% LOWER

The health minister said that "we should ask ourselves in Canada whether or not we are prepared to pay contribution rates which are proportionately higher than those in the U.S. on incomes which are 30 per cent lower in order to achieve parity with the American system."

Another basic difference between the two systems is that in Canada there is one flat-rate pension. In the U.S., the old age payments are based on income. The higher the income, the higher the benefits.

FUNDAMENTAL

"Here we are faced with a fundamental question," he said. "Do we prefer a graduated system to a flat system of benefits?"

He said the Canadian system stems from "the principle of subsistence benefits which Lord Beveridge described as implying that everyone should have bread before anyone has cake."

The alternative is to superimpose a graduated system on top of the flat-rate benefit system.

"In other words, there would be a basic payment, and, no matter how low their income, no one would receive less. Those in the higher income brackets, who contribute more to the pension fund, would receive additional benefits based on their contribution."

GRADUATED

The British, said Mr. Monteith, have recently amended their flat-rate system, to provide a supplementary graduated system.

And here he gave an indication of the government's go-slow policy.

"We shall, of course, follow further developments relating to the new British plan with the greatest interest."

The proposed Wenner-Gren railway between Prince George and the Yukon border will be well under way before the next election, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in an interview this morning.

He was commenting on an Ottawa story stating that CNR president Donald Gordon had twice offered to assist the province in public construction of such a railway. The story said the Ottawa aid would mean a savings of $30,000,000 to the province.

OFFERED TO SELL

"I notice Mr. Gordon says he has written to the province of B.C.," said the premier. He pointed out when the PGE was under construction "we not only sought federal assistance but also CNR assistance on the PGE. We offered to sell it to the CNR."

"We got no co-operation at all. Now, years after, when we have a different railway to build, when we have an agreement with another firm, the CNR comes out belatedly."

But has the government a definite agreement for the Wenner-Gren construction? he was asked.

"You've seen the agreement. It is a binding agreement with individuals," the premier replied.

MUST BE STARTED

(The agreement signed with Wenner-Gren officials states a start must be made on the railway in the second quarter of this year, but the developing company has not yet been formed.) The premier said it doesn't matter as his agreement was with the principals who will form the company.

He was asked how the province could afford to turn down $30,000,000 in assistance.

"It can't save us any money because we are not going to spend any," replied the premier.

It was suggested by reporters that neither would the province make much money from a railway it didn't own.

"The province will make from it. It will be a feeder line to the PGE," said the premier.

The premier said he'd like the federal government to "come clean" on the promised $25,000,000-a-mile subsidy for the line.

Columbia Plan Lost Friend In Neuberger

Liberals are sorry to hear of the death of Sen. Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon, provincial party leader Ray Perrault

His death could be a serious blow to a Columbia River agreement. He was the key elected representative in the American Northwest pressing for an agreement," he said.

"Of all the enthusiasts for a Columbia agreement, he was the greatest and his death is most unfortunate."

U.S. BREAK WITH CUBA POSSIBLE, SAYS HERTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today the United States eventually might have to consider breaking relations with Cuba, but that he hopes things would never come to that stage.

Herter told a news conference that no consideration is being given at this time to such drastic action despite Premier Fidel Castro's apparent determination to keep trouble stirred up between the two countries.

Herter charged again that Castro has tried to turn grief over the deaths of those killed in the Havana explosion of a munition ship into animosity against the United States.

ONLY FIRM NAMES CHANGE

Same Builders Get Road Jobs Says Strachan

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

Highways Minister Gagliardi's protests thundered through the legislature Tuesday as he fought Opposition charges of highway contract patronage.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan knitted a tangled web of contract awards to an ever-changing list of contracting firms, which despite name changes and changes in directorship, appeared to involve the same principals over and over.

The names Mr. Strachan used included those of former Social Credit candidates and persons linked with B.C. Social Credit League officials.

"I am more convinced than ever that contracts are being handled in a manner injurious to the public purse," he said.

Contracts, he claimed, are awarded without regard for stability and experience, with the taxpayer paying for what often results in "shoddy work."

Mr. Strachan accused the minister of refusing to disclose details of contract awards and voting in the House against tabling of correspondence with some of the firms involved.

He challenged the minister to reveal an RCMP report following an investigation of a contract last August.

For anything "I'll take the blame."

"I've saved this province millions and millions and millions and I'll save them a few million more."

Mr. Strachan opened the consideration of the highways minister's $85,390,111 estimate by referring to a press statement he issued last August. It charged patronage was indicated in the awarding of some $12,000,000 of government road-building contracts.

Mr. Strachan recalled that after an RCMP investigation was held into a project which was let to L. & M. Logging Company, a newspaper said the regional mechanical superintendent for the department of highways at Kamloops resigned his job.

It was revealed, said Mr. Strachan, that he was a director of a company involved in road work.

The article further identified the official's wife as an immediate past president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Social Credit League.

The company was said to have changed its name several times, being known variously as Union Contractors, Bonanza Construction and Continental Construction.

'Wild . . . Fantastic' Says Gagliardi

But Mr. Gagliardi summed up Mr. Strachan's remarks as "wild, fantastic and unrelated, absurd statements . . . insinuations aimed at grabbing headlines and tearing down reputations and the moral fibre" of the government.

He shouted that nobody ever gets contracts from his department except through competitive bidding and his department advisers examine the bids and make the recommendations.

In eight years, only 2 per cent of firms taking government contracts had got into financial difficulties, he said. He admitted that in almost every contract awarded, the final cost is greater than the contract price, but explained this was because factors unknown at the time of signing boosted the cost.

The minister roared his disapproval of a scheme suggested by contractors — that of preparing a list of "pre-qualified contractors" who would alone be able to bid for government work.

"That's a closed shop," he said.

He belittled the opposition there is no political or personal patronage. As far as his department is concerned, if it is to be blamed

Herter made this disclosure when asked at his press conference what he thought about a statement by Soviet Premier Khrushchev recently that the great powers should do nothing now that might hurt prospects for the May summit conference.

Later, Herter said the high level flight decision had nothing to do with the summit. He also denied that a firm decision had been made to resume flights above 10,000 feet, although 10 days ago high officials here said the United States, Britain and France had agreed on such a move.

18 MEN TRAPPED

Tappings Spur Hope at Mine

LOGAN, W.Va. (UPI) — Faint tappings coming from a ventilating shaft five miles from the pit head indicated today that some or all of 18 miners trapped deep in a mine here since early Tuesday may be still alive.

The tappings were confirmed by officials, who investigated after an unidentified boy reported hearing "them" when he walked past the ventilating shaft.

However, a five-man investigating team which was sent to the shaft reported hearing no sounds and the men were recalled to aid the main rescue force.

The new hope that some of the miners had survived came after rescue workers, who had reached a spot 1,300 feet from the trapped men, said a stubborn, gas-spraying fire which prevented rescue earlier had broken out again.

AGADIR, Morocco (CP) — Faint calls for help have been heard in the ruins of Agadir's Hotel Saada where about 60 foreign tourists were staying when the coastal resort was smashed by an earthquake last week. (See page 9.)

Jet Pilot Strafes Indonesia Palace

JAKARTA, Indonesia (CP) — An Indonesian Air Force pilot who strafed President Sukarno's palace here today has been captured by army officials inside rebel-infested West Java territory, air force sources said tonight.

He was identified as Lieut. Daniel Maukar. He bailed out of his MiG-17 jet fighter near Gunung Haruman.

The source said the pilot was on a training flight with other aircraft when he broke away to make the attack on the presidential palace.

Sixteen persons were injured, including a worker and a sentry at Sukarno's Jakarta palace, President Sukarno and his family escaped injury.

Fourteen persons were injured as the young pilot also strafed the resort village of Tilting.

Attack rumored. Rumors swept Jakarta of an attack on the capital's port of Tanjung Priok and other places in West Java. Cable lines out of the city were closed promptly.

An army spokesman in a public announcement said the government was investigating the shooting and urged Indonesians to keep calm and trust the government.

The young pilot, a lieutenant whose father was recently arrested for unlawful possession of arms, took off with three other MiGs on a training flight.

He peeled off from the formation and dived in at Sukarno's "Freedom Palace," coming from the south out of an overcast sky.

A hail of bullets smashed into the stonework and whistled down wide corridors of the palace. Some penetrated into the president's dining room.

A sentry was wounded in the leg and a workman plastering in front of the building was wounded in the back.

Sukarno at the time was next door to the palace in his cabinet room attending a meeting of his supreme advisory council.

Philip To Give Bride Away

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret will be married at Westminster Abbey May 6 with the Archbishop of Canterbury officiating, Buckingham Palace announced today.

Prince Philip, husband of the Queen and Margaret's brother-in-law, will give the bride away.

It has been generally expected that Margaret's fiancé, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, will be elevated to the peerage before the wedding takes place.

The palace announcement did not touch on this point, however.

The Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, also was married at the abbey on Nov. 20, 1947. The archbishop, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, head of the Church of England, also officiated at that wedding.

BRIEF ANNOUNCEMENT

Today's brief announcement said:

"The marriage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret with Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones will be solemnized at Westminster Abbey on the morning of Friday, May 6, at 11.30 o'clock."

The statement was dated from Clarence House, London home of the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Accredited court correspondents at Buckingham Palace were officially informed of the actual details, including the role to be played by Prince Philip and the archbishop.

The bridesmaids and best man were not named.

NEARING THIRTY

The marriage will take place 2½ months short of Margaret's 30th birthday, which falls on Aug. 21.

Armstrong-Jones reached his 30th birthday two days ago.

The wedding will take place only three days after the beginning of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London, so it is assumed that the visiting Commonwealth statesmen, including Canada's Prime Minister "Diefenbaker," will be among the guests.

The Daily Mail, which correctly predicted the date in this morning's editions, says Princess Alexandra and little Princess Anne are certain to be bridesmaids, and that Prince Charles, heir-apparent to the throne, might be a page.

May 6 is a date of family significance. It will mark the 50th anniversary of the death of Edward VII, great-grandfather of the princess. It is also the anniversary of the accession to the Throne of King George V.

The wedding is likely to jam London with the biggest crowds since Elizabeth's coronation in 1953.

The Daily Mirror says Armstrong-Jones, who has had some experience as a designer of women's sports togs, is designing Margaret's wedding dress.

"He has already completed the rough sketches which will form the basic plan for the royal dressmaker," the newspaper says, "and he is now discussing his ideas with the princess."

The BBC has asked the Lord Chamberlain for permission to televise the wedding ceremony, as it televised the Coronation, but no reply has yet been received.

The Queen's own wedding ceremony was neither televised nor filmed, although films of the wedding procession were taken inside the abbey.

SCHOOLBOY PLUTOCRATS SQUANDER $67,000 LOOT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Young Australian schoolboys paid their schoolmates $67,000 to carry their books to school after a £10,000 ($104,000) fortune was found hidden in a black wooden box, police reported today.

Other boys gave their young sisters 10 shillings a day to "keep out of the way and not annoy them" and others paid £20 to young friends for stamps or other things they coveted.

Police said a young schoolboy played a key role in the case. He was found with a large sum of money hidden in a black wooden box, police reported today.

U.S. Row With Cuba Glossed Over by Ike

IN THE HOUSE

WITH Norman Cribbens

Comparisons are always dangerous, but it is tempting to call Highway Minister Phil Gaglardi the poor girl's Yul Brynner.

True Mr. Gaglardi isn't bald, only thinning, but when he trains those big accusing eyes and resplendent voice on the Opposition you are irresistibly reminded of the King of Siam rebuking an unruly subject.

He is so splendidly defiant, so righteous.

"I have saved this province millions and millions and MILLIONS of dollars on highways contracts," he cried, his voice rising to a note of frenzy.

"And I will save it millions more yet."

Mr. Gaglardi sustained this kingly role all Tuesday afternoon and evening as members of the CCF Opposition accused him of neglecting one part of the province for another and of awarding highways contracts to party friends.

At one point he got angry, he shouted to CCF leader Robert Strachan:

"Are you calling me a liar? Sit down and behave yourself while I am speaking."

Mr. Gaglardi was defending his salary vote of $12,500 a year and a total of $85,000,000 for the work of his department, and it seemed as if the CCF wanted to cut him off without a penny.

The CCF put up a brave show, knowing full well it was doomed to failure from the start.

At one point in the highways debate, Tony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie) spoke of a left-handed "patronage dispenser" who used to move around his constituency offering roads in return for votes.

"He has gone now," Mr. Gargrave said.

"And his party with him," added Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

"Yes," said Mr. Gargrave, "I think he was a Liberal."

Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan) then told of a Social Credit candidate who visited his riding during the 1956 provincial election and promised blacktop roads from Nelson to Vernon if he were elected.

"He was not elected," Mr. Harding said, "and the highways minister has since told us he gave no firm commitment in this regard."

Back from sunny Italy comes Recreation Minister Hon. Earle Westwood. Mr. Westwood was a guest of Canadian Pacific Airlines on its inaugural flight from Montreal to Rome.

"It was a glorious experience," he said, "to tread in the footsteps of those who were young when Christ was born, the stone stairs worn down by millions of feet."

"The whole city is inspiring, but the surrounding scenery does not compare with what we have in British Columbia, and the general standard of living is lower."

"The average wage of a civil servant in Rome is about $100 a month, yet the prices of goods in the stores seemed about the same as ours."

Sailor Belatedly Tells of Assault

Half-strangled and beaten about the face, naval seaman Richard Walter Colquhoun, 1240 Newport, was dumped from a stranger's car on Hillside near Shelbourne a week ago Tuesday midnight but told police about it eight days later.

The young man spent the intervening time in HMCS Naden Hospital, thinking police had been informed of the incident by hospital authorities.

Stubbs Funeral Thursday At Chemainus

CHEMAINUS — Funeral services for Alfred E. P. Stubbs, 76, former Chemainus Hospital board chairman and resident for 44 years, who died this week, will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. at St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church.

He served overseas with the 103rd Battalion in the First World War, was a Canadian Legion member, and until his retirement in 1949 worked in the office of the H. R. MacMillan Lumber Co.

Surviving are the widow, Evelyn, at home; a son, John, in Victoria; and a brother and sister in England.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says relations between the United States and Latin America have reached "an all-time high."

But a growing diplomatic storm with the Fidel Castro government of Cuba provided a sharp exception to the general picture Eisenhower painted in a television address Tuesday night.

Eisenhower made no reference to Cuba as he reported on his 15,560-mile tour of four South American countries. Despite the excellent relations he reported, he said there were some notable exceptions, and "an even firmer partnership must be our goal."

HERTER "INSULTING"

Shortly before he spoke, Cuba rejected as insulting a statement by State Secretary Christian Herter, Monday, denouncing implications by Castro that United States sabotage may have been involved in last week's explosion of an ammunition ship in Havana.

Herter had called the accusation "baseless, erroneous and misleading," and said it raised question of the Castro regime's desire for better relations with the United States.

Cuba fired back a protest "against the aggressive tone derogatory to our national dignity." Foreign Minister Raul Roa insisted that Cuban representatives must be addressed with "absolute respect without descending to offensive utterances of a personal character."

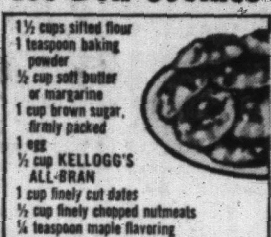

The state department declined any immediate comment.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS

In his speech, Eisenhower stressed repeatedly that "serious misunderstandings" still hurt relations between the U.S. and its neighbors to the south. He appealed to American "newspapers, magazines and all means of communication" to help remove the misunderstandings and "build the knowledge on which co-operative action may flourish."

Competition Best For Airways—Hees

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Competition benefits Canada's air industry and the flying public, Transport Minister Hees declared Tuesday in a Commons statement on federal government air policy.

"We believe that better service and lower prices are most readily achieved under the competitive system," he said before a two-day debate ended.

The government has launched a $96,700,000 airport construction program since 1957, he said in reply to Liberal and CCF criticism alleging construction delays, one-sided swapping of international air agreements and policy detrimental to the Canadian air industry.

Mr. Hees followed up his statement with a flow of interruptions and heckling and was called to order three times in a short period by Speaker Roland Michener for commenting aloud from his seat on remarks by Lionel Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister.

Non-confidence motions by the Liberals and the CCF were defeated with the two opposition parties supporting each other.

'Hospital Insurance Before Medical'

A full-scale state medicine program should not be considered until the hospital insurance plan is fully developed, Health Minister Monteith said.

He told the Commons estimates committee that hospital out-patient and home-care services should be expanded in the present federal-provincial program and state medicine—government-sponsored medical care insurance—kept in "proper perspective."

The present hospital insurance program, in effect in nine of the 10 provinces, was still "far from complete."

Quebec is showing encourageing interest in the plan and the federal government stands ready to help, he said.

It will probably be extended to the Yukon and Northwest Territories this year.

Mr. Monteith announced the level of strontium-90 in Canadian milk samples rose slightly in December but was still below the peak reached in June last year.

Mr. Monteith told the estimates committee of the House of Commons that the rise probably was seasonal, resulting from the feeding of dairy cattle on summer stocks of fodder.

CANADA MUST EXPORT TO LIVE

'Drop Trade Barriers'

MONTREAL (CP)—A selective lowering of trade and tariff barriers between Canada and the United States was advocated in a panel discussion Tuesday night by R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

"A policy of self-sufficiency with high protection is economic suicide," said Mr. Fowler, criticizing "more vocal" and growing pleas for trade protectionism in Canada.

"We must export to live, and what the world wants from us are our raw materials and basic manufactures. We should develop this trade in all directions."

Mr. Fowler and two other panelists—economist John J. Deutsch, former assistant deputy finance minister, and businessman Mitchell W. Sharp, former deputy trade minister—diagnosed Canada's trade and payments ailment as serious and chronic.

They sounded a warning against doing too much too quickly—cautioning the country against trying to grow so fast that outside, foreign capital has to help with massive infusions.

Mr. Deutsch added the federal government for taking "too much of our available savings" to finance its deficits.

SUBS WILL GO 100 MPH WITH NEW ATOM ENGINE

Senator Won Over Cancer, Dies Suddenly of Stroke

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Death by cerebral hemorrhage claimed Senator Richard L. Neuberger early today. It was an ironic fate for the 47-year-old Oregon Democrat who had just won a fight with cancer.

Neuberger had been home since January, trying to shake off a series of virus infections as well as an attack of shingles.

He thought he was gaining and last week filed for re-election to the United States Senate.

His death cuts the Democratic total to 64 against 35 Republicans, but a Democrat must be appointed in his place by Republican Governor Mark Hatfield to fill out his term.

So strong was his support in Oregon that the Republicans had groomed no one of stature to oppose him this year.

Neuberger became ill in the summer of 1958, and that August underwent an operation for cancer. Five months later he was smiling broadly as he told a press conference he regarded himself as a cured cancer patient.

He added national health to his favorite legislative topics, which until then had centred around development of hydroelectric power and conservation of wild life, timber and other resources. His profession was writing, and these had been his principal themes.

He was best known to Canadians for his work on the American side of the Joint International Committee studying power developments on international rivers, especially the Columbia.

He had a tremendous admiration for Canada. This was heightened by his war service, much of it spent at Whitehorse, in the Yukon Territory, and one of his books, The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was intended as a young people's story of the RCMP and the country.

In 1950, while he was being re-elected to the Oregon Senate, his wife Maurine, a school teacher whom he married in 1945, was elected to the state House of Representatives.

The Bare Cupboard

MR. Diefenbaker has acted with courage, and also from necessity, in refusing to give the prairie farmers deficiency payments on grain.

His courage may cost him many farm seats in the next election and, meanwhile, perhaps some defections in his House of Commons majority. But the necessities of his budget probably leave him no alternative.

Having squandered its money on all kinds of things, piled up huge deficits and deranged the nation's credit system, the Government simply cannot find money for the farmers, whether they deserve it or not.

Outside the prairies it will be said, too lightly, that the farmers don't deserve a large public subsidy denied to other Canadian citizens. In fact, the policies of the state already are subsidizing millions of Canadian citizens while damaging the farmers.

What, for example, is the protective tariff but a subsidy to the industries of central Canada, their owners and workers? The grain farmer pays this subsidy, in the price of all kinds of goods that he must buy, while his own products are sold, unprotected, in the competitive world market.

No wonder he is dissatisfied with the state's policy and demands a minor share of the state's hand-outs. Moreover, if the state is ready to pay subsidies to the producers of such things as pork and eggs, why should grain be exempted from these benefits?

Given our system of general subsidy called tariffs, given our new system of deficiency payments for some farm products, the grain farmer undoubtedly has a case for federal aid.

The best solution of his problem would be a reduction in tariffs, and hence his cost of farming and living, but doubtless he despairs of changing the Government's increasingly protective tariff policy.

It is clear that he need expect from the present Government and Parliament neither tariff reduction nor deficiency payments, though he probably will get some minor aid in one way or another since the Government will try to placate him.

This problem is not nearly so simple as it seems at first sight. If the Government agrees to deficiency payments on grain it not only involves itself in gigantic costs, probably sufficient of themselves to raise taxes. It must also face a further accumulation of surpluses as farmers are encouraged to produce more unsaleable grain with the aid of the state. The whole process must grow like a snowball rolling downhill.

If there is any doubt about that we have only to read President Eisenhower's latest report on the United States' parity-price system, which is only another version of deficiency payments.

At present, says Mr. Eisenhower, his Government is paying $1.5 million every day, or $1,000 per minute, to stabilize wheat prices alone.

Possibly the rich United States can afford this drain (though the President doesn't think so) but Canada could not afford it. Mr. Diefenbaker is quite right in saying that the American system has "accumulated unmanageable surpluses" and that we cannot carry proportionate costs here.

Indeed, existing taxes have not yet proved sufficient to carry all the Government's other costs and they are increasing automatically every day. When the grain farmers open Mother Hubbard's cupboard at Ottawa it is bare, through no fault of theirs.

Opposition on Fisheries Limits

AS NATIONS PREPARE FOR the second conference of the Law of the Sea in Geneva March 17, some of the opposition to Canada's fisheries limits proposal is already evident.

Nine western European nations have resolved to "resist with determination" all efforts to change existing and recognized fishery limits.

At present Canada, with most other nations, observes the three-mile limit. That means complete national jurisdiction over waters three miles from shore, both for fisheries control and for other purposes.

This nation has proposed that new limits be set. It asks complete control over waters six miles from shore as "territorial sea," as well as exclusive jurisdiction over fisheries extending 12 miles from a baseline on the coast. This is known as the "six-plus-six" formula.

Opposed to this change are Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, West Germany, The Netherlands, Portugal, Spain and Sweden.

Their position is understandable. Countries accustomed to sending fishing fleets far afield and without highly valuable fishing grounds close to their own shores, stand to lose if fishing jurisdiction is extended for nations which have important fishing grounds within 12 miles of their shores. Canada has the latter type of fisheries.

But the nine western European nations are not alone in calling for the maintenance of traditional limits. U.S. Senator Warren G. Magnuson of Washington State, has accused his own country's state department of heading for the conference with the idea of giving up America's historic insistence on the three-mile limit.

This makes interesting reading for Canadians and particularly British Columbians. The United States proposal is similar to Canada's. Both favor the six-plus-six mile limits for territorial waters and fisheries respectively. But the United States also seeks to maintain "historic" fishing rights for any country's fishermen who have operated in areas which would otherwise be closed to them if the six-plus-six proposal were accepted.

In British Columbia the "historic rights" proviso is seen as an effort to assure American fishermen access to fishing grounds up to the current three-mile limit off this coast.

If the "historic rights" case were strong, why would Senator Magnuson of Seattle, presumably informed on Pacific Northwest U.S. fishermen's wishes, object to the American proposal?

Senator Magnuson may be standing firm on tradition. He may also be suggesting a course which might persuade Canada to accept the United States proviso against its will. Or he might be calculating the possible success of the Canadian plan and trying to keep the gates to off-shore British Columbia fisheries open to American fishermen at least to within a distance of three miles of this coast.

The Oliver Twists

ONTARIO IS LOOKING FOR an extra $100 millions a year from the federal-provincial tax agreements. Premier Frost and his provincial treasurer have termed their need "urgent," but this appeal, despite its Conservative origin, will find rather deaf ears in deficit-ridden Ottawa.

Contributing to the official deafness will be Ontario's disclosure in last week's budget speech that the province will spend more than one billion dollars in the coming fiscal year and will achieve this feat without an increase in taxes. A surplus of more than $500,000 is predicted.

There seems to be a strong reliance on the old biblical doctrine that to him that hath shall be given. And the Ontario attitude may have something familiar about it to British Columbians.

Barefoot Boy With Cheque

LAST YEAR THE PROVINCIAL department of agriculture spent $10,000 to advertise British Columbia products for sale.

This year a contract for $150,000 is to be signed with an advertising concern to popularize the sale of British Columbia farm products domestically.

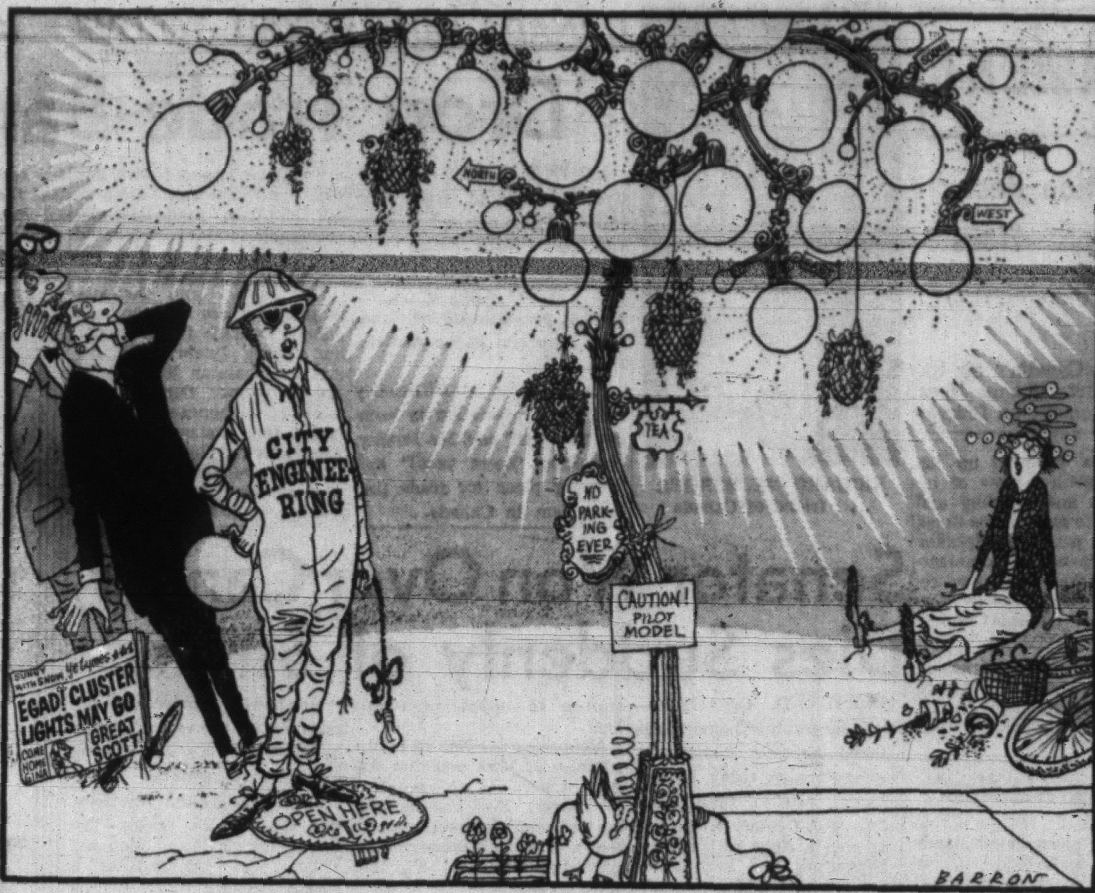

It is surely only a coincidence that the vote this year is 15 times that of last—and that an election is in the wind.

It is surely only a coincidence that a big farm products advertising campaign was also sponsored by the Government in 1956, when it was also appealing for support in a general election.

That was the occasion on which advertisements extolled the merits of British Columbia apples, and also, doubtless by pure coincidence, carried a picture of Premier Bennett. Irrefutable evidence that Okanagan McIntosh Reds are supreme.

It is good to notice that the British Columbia farmer is once more coming into favor with the Government—as he seems to do, again by pure coincidence, when an election is at hand.

"There you are, gentlemen . . . plenty of light and no sacrifice of artistic integrity . . ."

'IS NO LOVELY PUTTS'

Eighteen Holes of Golf in Five Languages

By STUART KEATE

LISBON — Sunday was one of those days a person remembers. We started out playing golf with a Canadian in exile and a Portuguese; had lunch with Barbara Wilgress (wife of the first secretary of our embassy in Lisbon) and some friends from South Africa; drove to the home of a handsome young Spaniard to view the Carnaval of Estoril, featuring the French clown Fernandel and the German actor Kurt Jurgens; were driven back to Lisbon in a German Opel by a young Turkish diplomat named Yalcin Kurtbay; and ended up having supper at a French restaurant with the Italian name of A Galeota.

Brother, pass the Berlitz!

Let this not strike fear into the hearts of the Canadian visitor. A workable, if somewhat frayed, knowledge of French, will get you through. Most people in this cosmopolitan city understand English. On the surface, Portuguese sounds simple but its nuances are tough.

The very best language to know when travelling on the Continent, the experts say, is Italian, as it offers something for everyone.

Our Portuguese golfing partner, Signor Ferrari, proved to be a gamesman in five languages. In English, his ability to unnerve his opponents would have made Stephen Potter look like a piker.

He took one look at my swing on the first tee, shook his head dolefully, turned his wrists in mock imitation, and made a noise that sounded like "Zisssst!"

(This, I believe, is the Portuguese equivalent of "Fun's fun, but what in God's name have I got into, here?")

On the third hole, as my wife approached a bunker shot, the Signor strolled up and murmured helpfully: "It is not possible to ground the club in the sand, is it?"

"No," replied this veteran of many a Tuesday at Oak Bay. "We play the Royal and Ancient Rules in Canada, too."

"Ah, charming!" sighed the Signor. Thus, while correcting our swings and pointing out the castles he had designed (he is Lisbon's leading architect), Signor Ferrari was chipping close to the pin, counting everyone's strokes out loud, playing out of turn, and cursing out the caddies in purple Portuguese.

Which was a shame. Because it is a limited game (only four courses in the whole country), there is a superabundance of caddies, bright little fellows in blue overalls and Basque berets. They work for 20 escudos a round—about 75 cents, on which the caddy-master takes a rake-off—and have mastered a "golfer's English" which we found enchanting.

At the very first hole my boy, Pedro, handed me a club and said: "Is lovely putts." Thereupon he summoned the other caddies and there was a conference around the hole. After much deliberation, Pedro placed another club at the back of the hole, indicating that this was the line for the shot.

I putted, and missed. "Is NO lovely putts," said Pedro.

My admiration for these boys grew as the game progressed. The Estoril course is a wild enclave of barranca, sand, daisy-fields, eucalyptus trees, pines and brick ruins. Many of the fairways are less than 50 yards wide. The toll of lost balls is frightful. But Pedro and his pal Francisco were relentless in their quest.

As we tottered up the 18th fairway—Signor Ferrari having declared a victory at the 16th, and departed for other conquests—I remarked to my wife that I would like to import 200 of these excellent youngsters to Oak Bay or Colwood, where caddies are in short supply.

Pedro got enough of this conversation to evince excitement.

"Sir, is good golfs in Canada?" he asked.

"Is good golfs," I confirmed. "Excellent—ay."

Pedro pondered this for a moment. "Zisssst!" he said.

BUDS OF PROTECTIONISM

But the Hope Lies in Foreign Trade

Times Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Protectionism is a perennial plant that always flowers in the spring of a presidential year. Its buds are opening now. Some two dozen resolutions already introduced into the Congress are designed to prevent the Eisenhower government from reducing tariffs in next autumn's GATT negotiations.

Even if passed, such a resolution would not repeal the Government's power to revise the tariff downward, within certain limits, since that power was granted to it in 1958 for a four-year period under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. But certainly the Government's negotiators in GATT would be inhibited by a hostile vote in the Congress.

The protectionists in both political parties recently found a useful, though spurious weapon.

They say that the United States accumulated an over-all deficit of some $4 billion in its balance of international payments last year and will probably experience another deficit of smaller size this year. The easy way to redress the balance is to reduce imports by increasing tariffs or other restrictions.

To Win Votes

This argument is calculated, of course, to win sectional votes next November in areas where imports offer strong competition to local products.

The purely regional demand for protection is presented as a necessary national policy to protect the United States as a whole from a ruinous outflow of dollars and gold. Two essential facts are thus conveniently ignored.

First, the United States must accept an unfavorable balance of trade, visible and invisible, at least temporarily, if it is ever to secure the repayment of its huge foreign loans. They can be repaid only in foreign goods or services exceeding the debtors' imports from the United States.

Second, the United States could not retreat from this year's GATT negotiations without grave economic damage to its export industries and perhaps even graver political damage to its foreign policy.

Only the hope of a liberal trade policy in the United States will prevent the two new trading zones of Europe from beginning to discriminate against American imports as tariffs between the member nations of the Six and the Seven are reduced next summer and progressively from then on.

If these reductions are to apply to outsiders Europe must be satisfied that the United States—and Canada also—are prepared to grant reciprocal concessions. And if that hopeful trans-Atlantic movement toward more abundant trade should fail, the resulting economic quarrel would wrench the alliance of the free world at a most critical moment.

So far the Eisenhower Government has flatly rejected the easy, dangerous method of balancing the United States' trade by buying less from the world.

Must Balance

On the contrary, it has insisted over and over again, at the recent Tokyo meeting of GATT and in many official statements, that trade must be balanced, later on, by increased American exports. They will not be achieved, however, as the government says, if the United States now curtails imports and invites retaliation from its foreign customers.

The protectionist drive in the Congress is disguised as an innocent, natural and vital safeguard against the outflow of the nation's treasure and the inflow of cheap goods from low-wage countries.

Actually, its success, in crippling the GATT negotiations, would be regarded by the world at large as the beginning of a return to the era of Smoot and Hawley. All the free nations would be encouraged to seek the old storm cellar, individually or in groups, with impoverishment for all and a major victory for the Communist bloc.

In the Bud

Fortunately, the United States government, and presumably the responsible leaders of the Democratic party, understand these dangers and will try to nip them in spring bud.

By during a national election campaign, while candidates of both parties are seeking the votes of local pressure groups, there will doubtless be bad moments for the United States' foreign friends.

They should remember that the election campaign will end in November and that the president elected then, and not the Congress, will be making tariff policy within the limits of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. Among the potential presidents in both parties none appears willing to provoke a trans-Atlantic tariff quarrel. All seem to understand that the hope of the free nations, economically and politically, lies in the expansion of foreign trade.

Back to Mr. Schmaltz

By B. A. TOBIN

THE supermarket is probably as typical a creation of our age as you could find. It has a little bit of almost all phases of our civilization.

It is the combined efforts of heating engineers, lighting engineers, chemical engineers, transportation engineers, sales engineers, and just plain ordinary engineers. The supermarket's shining spotlessness, its organization, its planned attractiveness represent a peak of some kind in our modern design for living. It could have existed in no other era, it could have been produced by no other type of society. It is ours.

It would be fair to imagine that, having taken so long to evolve, the supermarket would be here to stay. It would become even more super, perhaps, as time goes on, but the general principles of oh-so-easy self service, hygienic perfection, mechanical simplicity, mood music, chrome and enamel gadgetry, spot-lighted eye-catchers, hypnotic display, streamlined efficiency and cornucopian splendor—all these, you might well imagine, would be permanent.

Unexcelled

Above all, you'd think, the new system of help-yourself, weigh-your-own, away-with-clerks, who-needs-humans merchandising—which is the most outstanding feature of the supermarket—must be a permanent arrangement. The one employee you have contact with, the one who accepts your money and rings it up, can be as mechanical and robotic as the electronic contrivance that opens the door for you before you get there.

Click, click, chug, ding! Thank you sir, thank you ma'am. Mechanical cash register, mechanical addition, mechanical smile and mechanical thanks.

Now and then, of course, a girl is too alive, too warm with humanity, to remain enclosed in the supermarket's mold. She lets escape a look or a smile that defies and defies the pharmaceutical perfection of her surroundings. But she is the exception. Mechanization reigns supreme.

That is what the experts aimed at. That is what they achieved. You'd think it would be with us forever. But you'd be wrong.

For the experts have been studying the problem again. Not content with perfection, they want to exceed it. And they've found out how they can do it.

In the 1970s, according to a news report, we can expect supermarkets to go back to the 1930 shop. Individual departments with shopkeepers (human) in them will turn the 1970 supermarket into a collection of little old-time stores, just like you shopped in when you were a youngster.

Why such a revolutionary concept? Why such a super-modern sales idea as stores with storekeepers serving people?

Human Factor

Well, the experts have discovered something. They have discovered that although the merchandising became mechanical, the customers didn't. The customers' perversely remained human—probably through some flaw in their structure—and careful research shows that they like to have humans sell to them.

That's quite an advanced idea for an expert to come up with. It was pretty smart of them to find out so soon what everyone else has known all along. Don't underestimate those experts. Why, they're almost human themselves, some of them.

So they're already planning to make a start with butchers. They found, with the help of psychologists, market analysts, economists, statisticians, sociologists—oh, yes, and by going right up and asking people themselves—that people themselves prefer to buy their meat from a human who cuts the meat up right there while they watch, who shuffles out to the refrigerator to bring in another side of beef, who winks while he throws in a scrap for the dog, and tips his hat as he hopes the customer's husband's cold will soon be better.

That was the one thing the experts forgot—the merchandiser's personal interest in the customer. And that was the thing that used to keep families dealing with the same butcher or grocer through a couple of generations, that made folk go away across town to buy from their old storekeeper even though they'd moved to another neighborhood, that made friends deaf to cut-rate bargains elsewhere because they "liked to deal" with old Joe or Gus or Mr. Schmaltz.

Keep Him Real

So they're going to bring Mr. Schmaltz back. I hope they don't wreck him in the process. I hope they don't turn him into a smooth phony.

I hope they don't send him to a psychology school to learn how to appear to be interested in his customers, to learn the tricks of smiling, tipping his hat, chucking children under the chin and remembering with the aid of a special memory-training course that Mrs. Jones likes chicken livers and Mrs. Brown's daughter is away at university.

Let us hope they will not dress him in "friendly storekeeper" clothes, specially designed by merchandising experts, give him false whiskers, false motives and false humanity.

I hope they don't do any of these things, because the world needs Mr. Schmaltz. Even the experts admit that. The only question is, will they let us have him?

Tired of Church Clubs

LONDON — The government report brought out by the committee set up to look into what should be done for the youth of Britain today produced, among others, this hard-boiled comment from what seems unfortunately nowadays to be an all-too-typical British teenager: "Whatever they have in mind for us, I can tell you us kids are sick of the church-hall type of youth club, with ping-pong and the vicar leaning up against the juke box being

It's a matter of facilities.

Holiday hotels have locked up shop when winter comes and apart from the accommodation problem, those who do take on skiing there have found there are no shelter huts or eating places on the slopes and the barest minimum of ski-tows.

One of the few ski-tows, at Glencoe, requires the skier to do such an exhausting climb before he even gets to it that it has been dubbed the Coronary Thrombosis Slope!

The best skiing is in the Spey Valley, about 30 miles north of Balmoral, and now, thanks to the efforts of private enthusiasts locally, it is being made more tempting to winter sports enthusiasts.

Ten years ago one hotel in the valley was persuaded to stay open for a winter season as an experiment and now 18 stay open in the winter for skiing on the slopes of the Cairngorm Mountains.

This has been brought about by the urgings of the Cairngorms Winter Sports Development Board and by next season they will be giving Scottish skiing its biggest boost.

They have raised, purely from donations, $50,000 to build Britain's first chairlift on the face of 4,084-foot Cairngorm itself. With accommodation provided and with greater accessibility to the snows, the hope up there is that next winter will be the first of some boom years for Scottish skiing.

Ex-Civil Servants To Get Benefits

Retired civil servants who have been away from the government for 10 years or more will obtain pension benefits under a bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

Those who have 20 to 25 years service will get $4 a month from 15 to 20 years service $3, from 10 to 15 years $2. Those with more than 25 years service had their pension increased to $5 a month.

The bill also proposes $1,000 life insurance coverage at cost of $1 per month for retired civil servants aged under 66, or $500 insurance for those over 70, with intervening ages in ratio.

It also proposes a reciprocal arrangement to permit civil servants to transfer to other jobs, such as the federal civil service, and maintain their pension where the other employment offers the same exchange of benefits.

Maximum pension receivable is increased by the bill from $6,300 to $7,500.

(OSCAR CLASS—FOR THE YOUNG) "TOBY TYLER" (Capitol)—I can't imagine any youngster, irrespective of his or her years, not enjoying Walt Disney's "Toby Tyler." It contains something rare these days, a young star to entertain the young, meaning, of course, cherub-faced Kevin Corcoran. It has Kevin's best pal, Mr. Stubbs, a fine rascal of a chimp who steals everything within sight including many of the scenes. And in addition to these two it has the highlights of a circus with all its thrills and pink popcorn glamor.

The story starts off with young orphan Corcoran running away from the home of his guardians and joining the circus as assistant to fast-talking vendor Bob Sweeney. After awhile he makes friends with owner Richard Eastham, strong man Henry Calvin, head clown Gene Sheldon and little bareback rider Barbara Baird.

BASED ON JAMES OTIS KALER's book the adaptation by Bill Walsh and Lillie Hayward is clever in that it presents "Toby Tyler" with its villains and its heroes but the villains are more funny than wicked and the heroes even have their small faults.

Thanks to these ingredients the story never gets sticky or overly sentimental. If, perhaps, young Toby emerges too well from all the difficulties that beset him, why not? The world needs the odd small boy hero.

It would be a great pity if the old North American Horatio Alger legend were lost forever.

Norway Festival Show Warms Up

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Not soon to be forgotten either was "Solvald's Song" so poignantly sung by Erna Skaug, nor the fine personality and exuberance of master of ceremonies, Torvald Maurstad, with his clear, perfect English.

The Festival Company of Norway, performing Tuesday night at the Royal Theatre, led one to expect something unique with their opening dialogue between the bugle-voiced willow flute and sweet singer Erna Skaug; the giant flute played on a half-lit stage, the singer's voice floating disembodied from off stage.

And something unique they gave us after a slow, casual start of simple country dances accompanied by Hardanger fiddles, the eight-string headdress violin which is Norway's national instrument.

However, it was not long before the stage erupted into spectacular life and color with the utterly delightful dance drama, "The Magic Fiddle." And from that point on to the final curtain it was all charm and dazzle.

Spectacular dancing by the men of the company, who all, no matter what age, appear to be first-class athletes, provided the evening with thrills and excitement.

But the feather-light, elastic, highly-disciplined and stylish dancing of Aloysius Valente, the polished ballet performer, and lovely Guri Lysell, the vivid mime, and the puckish comedy and agility of Hans Kjolaa in his three marvelous disguises as a trollman, made the experience most memorable.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, head-achy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

HEALTH BOARD HITS PARENTS, STUDENTS

Safety Salvos Slam Bus Firm

Victoria-Esquamalt health board members Tuesday had harsh words for bus companies, parents of infants and young school children.

The salvos were fired in an attack on the growing number of accidents.

First up for criticism was a March 1 accident at Government and Yates in which a 16-year-old motorcyclist suffered a broken leg when a B.C. Electric bus "squeezed" him into the curb while making a right turn.

"This isn't the first squeeze in Victoria and it won't be the last which is very unfortunate but these things invariably carry on until there is a death before the authorities do anything," said chairman R. H. Reeve.

ON RIGHT SIDE

Dr. Mahaffy said the buses should be equipped with rear view mirrors on the right side to prevent such accidents. She also said that safety helmets should be compulsory for motorcyclists.

"Isn't this something for the police commission? Aren't we carrying the ball for them again?" asked Esquamalt Coun. G. K. Sammon. "After all this publicity, they are doing nothing to investigate it."

SIDE BLINKERS

Mr. Reeve added that he was "critical" of B.C. Electric for not equipping Victoria buses with yellow side blinkers, in addition to front and back directional signals, to warn motorists alongside the buses when a turn was to be made.

He said the Vancouver buses were equipped with the side blinkers because the front and back signals were not visible to motorists alongside the bus. The board referred the matter to city and Esquamalt councils.

Also under attack were parents of infants who do not make sure that drugs and detergents were out of reach of their children.

90 PER CENT

Coun. Sammon said these accounted for 90 per cent of the 115 poisonings treated at the poison control centre here in 1959.

The board recommended that the B.C. poison control division seek proclamation of a Poison Control Week throughout the province to publicize the need for precautions. It also authorized distribution of a special book to members of the Parent Craft classes.

Final criticism was aimed by Dr. Mahaffy at school children who are "very, very careless" in crossing streets when under supervision of the school safety patrols.

She said they appeared to become cocky and reckless "because they know the flags are up so they don't care about traffic."

Mr. Reeve agreed but blamed adults who set a bad example for children.

'Political Push' On PGE Attacked

Construction of the southern extension of the PGE ahead of the Squamish highway cost the province an extra $500,000, the opposition charged in the legislature Tuesday.

Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) said Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi had agreed in the House it would be wise to build the highway first because it was at a higher level than the railway at points where the routes were parallel.

Had such a course been followed, the rock and earth from the road right-of-way could have been pushed down the mountainside without interrupting the PGE, and the necessity to remove tracks.

"POLITICAL"

CCF Leader Robert Strachan said the government had pushed the PGE ahead first "for political purposes."

Don Robinson (SC-Lillooet) said the railway was pushed ahead because of the great expansion in PGE loadings which could no longer be handled on the southern end by barge from Squamish to Vancouver.

Victoria Daily Times
WED., MARCH 9, 1960

GUEST SPEAKER at annual dinner of the Garden City Horsemen's Club on Friday, March 18, at Monterey Restaurant, will be the deputy B.C. minister of agriculture, William MacGillivray. He will deal with subjects relating to horses. The dinner, to be presided over by club president J. V. "Ved" Donaldson, is open to members of all horse clubs, and persons interested in horses. The dinner at 8 p.m. will be preceded by a cocktail hour, and dancing will follow. Tickets are available from Garden City club members and must be obtained by Monday.

Mr. Gagliardi said: "I'm blameless in this."

The southern extension of the PGE was built in 1956 and the highway, though started at that time, was completed in 1958.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Saanich police court Tuesday:

Ian Scott Douglas, 1159 Tattersal, $20 for reversing vehicle when unsafe.

James Eaton Adams, 33 Obed, $40 for careless driving.

Robert Ernest Ostergren, 1038 Hillside, $15 for driving without valid licence plates.

Stanley Clyde Pace, 527 Dumeresque, $10 for failing to yield right of way to a pedestrian.

Magar Singh, 248 West Burnside, $15 for driving a truck with insecure load.

RESULT OF 'OPERATION DOORSTEP'

15 New TB Cases Found

Fifteen new cases of tuberculosis and five of other types of chest diseases have been diagnosed so far as a result of "Operation Doorstep" Victoria-Esquamalt health board was told Tuesday.

Another 45 persons are undergoing further diagnostic examinations, D. A. Geckie, program director of the B.C. TB Society, told the board.

All told, 18,202 persons—well above the 15,000 target—were X-rayed during the five-week survey by two mobile units earlier this year.

Of the 15 TB cases discovered so far, 14 were in the early stages which meant that some of them could be treated without losing time from work.

He praised the work of some 200 volunteers and the health board's staff in making the survey a success.

Board chairman R. H. Reeve said the survey was "a tangible result" of the annual Christmas Seal campaign.

Medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said the department hopes to launch a tuberculin testing survey this spring among Grades 7, 8 and 9 students. A similar survey covered Grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 a year ago.

Filibuster Ends After 157 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate finally quit its non-stop talking about civil rights Tuesday night and set for Thursday morning a vote on whether to halt the filibuster by southern Democrats.

The record-breaking oral session that started Feb. 29 finally ground to a halt at 5:10 p.m. PST after 18 southern Democrats had kept the words flowing almost continuously for 157 hours and 41 minutes. The Senate had recessed for Sunday.

The verbal marathon by the civil rights opponents far out-

THREAT OF FINE OR PRISON TO GUARD LINKS WITH PAST

A fine of $500 or six months jail are provided in a bill presented in the legislature Tuesday for anyone damaging or defacing any archeological or historic site.

The bill, presented by Provincial Secretary W. D. Black, makes it possible for the government to acquire such sites and objects and gives the minister of recreation and conservation jurisdiction over all remaining links with native Indian history—including the right to claim skeletal remains held by any private party.

'Take Over All Coastal Ferries'

Tony Gargrave (CCF, MacKenzie) told the legislature Tuesday the government should take over all coastal ferry services.

He further suggested the federal government should accept responsibility for all arterial highways in the province.

"The province should build them but Ottawa should pay for them," he declared.

Mr. Gargrave urged that coastal ferry services, now privately-owned but in some cases subsidized by the government, should be integrated.

The government this year is scheduled to start a two-hour car-passenger ferry service between Vancouver Island and the mainland.

HOPES HIGH FOR MORE QUAKE SURVIVORS

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)—The discovery of two more survivors in the earthquake-shattered city of Agadir brought new hope today that still others might be found alive among the 6,000 to 8,000 residents yet unaccounted for.

An Arab father and his young son were dug free of a pile of wreckage Tuesday eight days after the quake had buried them alive. News of their condition was not yet available here.

FIRST READING TO SASK. BILL

Trading Stamp Ban Gets Boost

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan legislature Tuesday gave first reading to a bill to prohibit trading stamps and other gift gimmicks.

The bill, if passed, will give the government wide powers through a licensing system.

Attorney-General Walker said outside the House the government has no plans at present to go beyond regulation of trading stamps.

He said, however, the action leaves us with authority to regulate other undesirable activities.

The method had been used successfully in other class of persons or to the public.

The bill gives the government power to make regulations prohibiting retailers from doing or carrying on in connection with gift stamps with purchases.

Trading stamps are a controversial issue in the province. There have been suggestions of a number of stores in connection with gift stamps with purchases.

JUDGE FOILED DEFENCE SAYS SLAYER'S APPEAL

EDMONTON (CP)—The appeal of Robert Raymond Cook, 23, against conviction and sentence in the June bludgeon-shooting slaying of his father, Ray, 53, opened in the Supreme Court Tuesday.

Gifford Main of Edmonton, conducting Cook's appeal, contended that Mr. Justice Gieschuk had been prejudicial to the defence by disallowing cross examination of Crown witnesses.

What's In a Name?

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A rose by any other name might smell as sweet but you can't sell Fearless Fraley that jazz when it comes to everybody's horse race.

That would be, of course, the Kentucky Derby. And what brings it to mind as usual is an announcement of the hay-burners who will possibly parade to the post on May 7.

The theory here is that only a horse with a great name can win this one.

In rapid substantiation, let it be said that old Fearless never knew a heavyweight champion, or even a flyweight champion, named Oscar. It works out the same in the derby, where the winners have been such class-handled chargers as Assault, Bold Venture, Count Fleet, Jet Pilot, War Admiral, Whirlaway and so on into the night.

For any interested members of the nomenclature brigade, let it be known that there is only a handful of steeds in this one which "sound" as if they can win the mile and a quarter gallop. Start with a colt called Warfare and after him you have such as Command Pilot, Great Manassas, Never Give In and True American. If you're asking how my plan works for Len Fruchman's Bally Ache, I'm afraid that he will have.

Substantiating one man's theory is the outcome for a horde of atrociously named nags of the past. All out of the money, these include such as Bankrupt, Burnt Cork, Dove Pie, Little Beans, Mr. Mutt, Rolled Stocking, Sir Bee Bum, Social Outcast, The Clown, The Nut and a juicy nothing named Watermelon.

So, following is the Fraley form chart on this year's hopefuls:

Another Alibi—Enough said, August Sun—Under which he'll finish.

Beyond Desire—And ability. Big Bird—A dodo. Bi-Biz—Last name should start with "D."

Bourbon Prince—Staggered in late.

Brunette Downs—Big Red must be spinning.

Bullet Hole—Between the eyes.

Chinese Bandit—Would need a gun.

Crown Prince—Al Schacht has a better chance.

Cuvier Relic—Bag of bones. El Zag—Should've zigged.

Fango—Bango.

Loach—A real mooch.

Mr. Folly—If he shows up.

Mr. Wag—Good name for a dog.

Oil Wick—Out of kerosene.

Road House—Too many stops.

Run For Nurse—Bring your own doctor.

Sonny's Sin—Cleaned out.

Te Amo Weep—Your sure will.

Third Strike—Great big out.

Too Much Brass—A bet requires real nerve.

Two Saints—At a race track?

Vox Pop—Wait 'til you hear the voice of those who bet on him.

What's Behind—Absolutely nothing, Doc, but you ought to see how many are up front.

Not all of them will get to the post, naturally. But it sure looks like a tough field in which to decide which one will finish last.

Erwin Egger, Betty Brown Top Sno Birds

Betty Brown and Erwin Egger will pack the biggest hopes of Victoria Sno Birds into next weekend's Vancouver Island club races at Forbiden Plateau.

They came out on top in feature events of the Sno Birds' annual club races last Sunday at the club's skiing area at Mount Brenton, near Chemainus.

Egger won the men's giant slalom with Art Davies in second place and Bob Davies third. Betty took women's giant slalom honors, finishing ahead of second-place Marg Ballard and Etta Stewart.

In the women's novice event, it was, in order, Marg Schmidt, Rosalind Midgley and Diana Viero. Mrs. Viero, leader, were Dave Morris, Peter Mace and Archie Gillies.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—President Eisenhower, and his administration came under fire during the 25th North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference.

President Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, of the Wildlife Management Institute, traced the presidential veto of the Water Pollution Act, calling for aid in cleaning up the nation's waters, to opposition by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and National Association of Manufacturers.

Cats Must Find Key In Tiffs With Totems

Three games out with six to play...

That's the situation confronting Victoria Cougars today as they concentrate on a second-place finish in the Western Hockey League.

They can't expect too much outside help since three of Cougars' remaining games are against Seattle Totems, the team they must beat out for second.

GAME TONIGHT

The first of the crucial Victoria-Seattle meetings, which the experts regard as "four-pointers," goes tonight at Memorial Arena.

Cougars play on Seattle ice once more and then wind up the schedule March 19 with another Memorial Arena meeting with the Totems.

Victoria's other remaining games are against last-place Spokane (two) and Vancouver. The fact that four of Cats' six games are on home ice provides the Victoria team with a fair chance of overhauling Seattle. Cougars have won 21 and tied two in 31 home games so far this season.

The key, however, rests on the Seattle-Victoria outcome.

FLYERS MOVE UP

Cougars were assured of at least a tie for the final playoff spot Tuesday when Vancouver Canucks tripped fifth-place Calgary Stampede, 5-1. Edmonton Flyers, also with a chance to take over second, moved two points ahead of the Cougars with a 5-3 win over Winnipeg Warriors.

Tuesday's results cut Stampede's playoff chances to the barest of mathematical figures. A win or tie by Cougars will eliminate the Prairie team.

Stocky Bruce Carmichael, in a scoring slump for the last six weeks, broke loose for a goal in each period to pace Vancouver. The three-goal performance increased Carmichael's season production to 23.

Ray Cyr and Orland Kurtenbach added the other Vancouver goals while Jim Brown replied with the only Stampede counter midway in the middle period.

FLYERS IN

Meanwhile, Flyers clinched their playoff berth by turning back Winnipeg on goals by Warren Hynes, Chuck Holmes, Don Poile, Roger DeJordy and Stu McNeill.

Bill Folk, Dick Lamoureux and Gerry Brisson tallied for the sixth-place Warriors.

MOST-VALUABLE LABEL WILL BE WORTH $500

SEATTLE (CP)—The Western Hockey League today announced establishment of a $500 award for the player voted the most valuable in the seven-team circuit.

The award will be presented annually to the player voted most valuable to his team by coaches and players.

To be eligible a player will be required to have participated in a minimum of 40 games during the regular 70-game schedule. Voting will be conducted under direction of the league and will be by sealed ballot.

Each team will be allotted 16 votes, including one for the coach and one each for 15 active players. Players and coaches will be required to vote for opposing team members only.

Chinooks Ousted By Sharp Sniping

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Albani Athletics, shooting an outstanding 50 per cent from the field, Tuesday night downed Lethbridge Chinooks 80-75 to take the British Columbia-Alberta basketball final series 3-2 in games.

Athletics will move on now to the Canadian championships and the Olympic trials which start in Montreal Saturday.

Albani led 43-34 at the half and widened their margin to 20 points at one stage, leading 59-39, before the defending Canadian champions came back with a drive which almost paid off.

BENCH STRONG

Superior bench strength and remarkable field goal shooting made the difference for Elmer Speidel's crew.

Ron Bissett turned in his finest game of the series as he led the Coast champions with 24 points. He was followed by Doug Brinham and John Kootnekoft, who hit for 18 and 17 points respectively.

The latter two killed the Chinooks with dazzling jump shots from 20 and 25 feet out.

INSPIRED EFFORT

Jack Lilla played an inspired game for the Chinooks and scored 28 points. Al West and Tom Karren followed with 12 and 10 points.

Albani scored 30 of the 60 field tries while Chinooks dropped 27 of 80 shots they made in a desperate bid to overtake Albani.

Referee Iza Bourne of Lethbridge and Gummy Leach of Vancouver called 37 personals and one technical, with Albani picking up 20 personals and the technical.

Eight of the 10 Athletics who saw service got on the score sheet as the strength of the British Columbians showed through.

The two teams finished the series with exactly the same number of scoring points, 347.

Athletics—Winfield (7), Williamson Brown (3), Kootnekoft (17), Grisdale Brinham (18), Drom (5), Bissett (24), Sirtles (2), Patton, Fraser (2), Gail Jones, Total 80.

Chinooks—Lilla (28), West (12), Blawie (6), A. West (12), Karren (10), Foster (8), Terry, Haig, Forrest, Enli (4), Stevenson, MacLain, Total 75.

Bruins Suffer Biggest Pains As Habs Falter

By Canadian Press

Boston Bruins' playoff prospects look worse today than a crocodile's chances of surviving in the Arctic.

Necessity forced the Bruins to become rooters for Montreal Canadiens during the last few days and the perennial National Hockey League champions let them down. Canadiens lost 3-0 to Detroit Red Wings in Tuesday night's only league game—Canadiens' first loss in Detroit since March 23, 1958, but the Bruins were the heavier sufferers.

Detroit now has a third-place tie with Chicago's hustling Black Hawks, eight points ahead of Boston.

LITTLE HELP

For the third straight time Canadiens, who clinched first place last week, failed to defeat Boston's rivals for Stanley Cup berths. They were tied 2-2 by the Wings Saturday and lost 4-2 in Chicago Sunday.

Both Chicago and Detroit need only a win and a tie, coupled with a Boston loss, to make the playoffs. Chicago and Boston have six games left, Detroit five.

Terry Sawchuk played smoothly, at times brilliantly, in posting his fifth shutout of the season and 51st of his NHL career.

He handled 23 shots while Jacques Plante, playing without a mask, was tested 38 times.

Canadiens said Plante felt he was "being beaten on too many shots" while wearing the mask.

Norm Ullman, Len Lunde and Len Haley did the Detroit scoring in the first, second and third periods respectively.

OUTDOOR REPORT

BY

Doug Peden

It's a good bet that the fellow who tossed a verbal grenade at B.C.'s angling army by announcing that fishing derbies were games of chance has never packed home a derby prize.

Did you ever see a derby winner who wasn't convinced that catching a big fish was strictly a matter of skill? Or did you ever see a man who got skunked the same day that wouldn't suggest the "other guy was lucky"? It all depends which host you're in.

The bombshell that has the foundations of fishing derbies cracked and creaking was dropped a couple of days ago when Bill Roberts, president of the Parksville Fish and Game Club, said he was advised by an RCMP corporal that fishing derbies are illegal under the Lotteries Act when an entry fee is charged.

The Parksville proxy said police told him that derbies were considered games of chance and not skill because anglers had no control over the size of fish they caught.

To anglers, of course, that was like waving a red flag in front of a grouchy bull. Every guy who fishes more than five times a year believes his skill is at least partially responsible every time he hooks a big fish or hauls in a limit catch.

Derbies Are Not Actually in Danger

Sure, anybody might happen to tie into the biggest fish of the season, but I'll argue till Caddy comes home that, over a period of time, the expert will land more fish and more big fish than any unskilled line-dunker you care to name.

Is it all luck when an old-timer follows a beginner who has vainly flogged a trout pool for half an hour and hooks a big rainbow by deftly dropping a fly in the right spot? Is it luck of luck when a visitor to our waters loses three square inches of skin and a big salmon because he didn't know how to handle a single-action "knuckle-duster"? Is it just coincidence that the same names keep popping up year after year on lists of prize winners in Saanich Inlet derbies?

Of course, the point is that most thinking men will admit that skill plays a part in successful angling and fishing derbies are actually in no danger as long as all prizes go to people who catch fish.

Target for the crackdown is the practice of awarding "consolation" prizes, which are usually more valuable than the fishing awards and which can be won by anybody who purchases derby tickets. Although proceeds from major derbies invariably go to charity, people demand a chance to win something big in exchange for their donation—thus the consolation prize.

Anyway, It Won't Affect the Fishing

If the system had been limited to fishing derbies, it is probable that the Parksville anglers would never have heard any threats of prosecution. But a multitude of fund-raising campaigns—most of them for worthy causes—have sprung up in recent years and many have used a draw for a car or boat as a selling incentive.

In Victoria last summer it often seemed that tickets were being offered for something or other on every fourth corner. Public officials are considerate people where charity is concerned, but there is a limit to how often they can close their eyes.

It was strongly rumored last summer that there would be a change in policy for 1960. Now it is no longer a rumor and some charitable organizations may have to get along with less money.

It is unfortunate that the crackdown hit a fishing derby first, but there is one consolation. The policy change won't affect the fishing, which is a mighty important consideration.

Now Lions Will Have Well-Educated Critics

VANCOUVER (CP)—The teacher stood at the front of the crowded classroom, and said:

"This is the field. It's 110 yards long and 65 yards wide. The game is played by 12 men who have three downs to gain 10 yards."

The teacher was Wayne Robinson, head coach of the British Columbia Lions football team.

In the classroom at Burnaby Central High School were 1,032 persons attending the first-ever night school course for football spectators.

The students paid $2.50 for the four-night course, which began Monday night, or $1 for the single session. The classes are conducted by the Western Interprovincial Football Union club in conjunction with the suburban Burnaby night school.

One of the highlights of the first class was a display of equipment with Lion end Bruce Claridge acting as model. Film clips of common rule violations were shown to demonstrate graphically what constituted a penalty. Rule changes were explained and the fundamentals of the game outlined in the first 1½-hour session. Next week the class will go into more intricate details.

Robinson, asked later if he thought the classes might be compounding his own difficulties with the armchair quarter-backs, said:

"I don't think they're going to stop criticisms of the coach and the team, but they'll be better founded in their criticisms. A lot of the fun of enjoying football is in rebasing it after the game and I think these people are going to be more capable to make intelligent analysis of the strategy used."

WILL PLANTE GET MASK BACK FOR PLAYOFFS?

DETROIT (AP)—Jacques Plante still likes his Fiber-glas face mask.

"I play just the same with it or without it and I have just as much guts whether I wear it or not," the Montreal Canadiens' goaltender said Tuesday night. "But I'd like to wear it again."

It was the first time Plante had appeared unmasked in a National Hockey League game since a puck struck his face in a game at New York Nov. 1. Plante appeared shaky as the league-leading Canadiens lost 3-0 to Detroit Red Wings.

"I wanted him to try it to see what it was like without the mask," said coach Toe Blake, who never gave whole-hearted approval to the device Plante pioneered. "I think the mask affected his play," Blake said. "I would prefer that he didn't wear it in the playoffs."

BOOKIES TRIM ODDS

They Like Wyndburgh

LONDON (AP)—Britain's top bookies have clipped favorite Wyndburgh's betting odds for the March 26 running of the Grand National Steeple-chase—a sign that a lot of experts still think this is going to be Wyndburgh's year.

The 10-year-old Wyndburgh has finished second, fourth and second in the last three seasons. His betting price—once 7-1—slumped to 10-1 after a defeat at Warwick 11 days ago.

But the bookies and bettors still believe that Wyndburgh is the horse to watch in the National. And now his betting price was shortened from 10-1 to 8-1.

Other odds: Dandy Scot 10-1; Team Spirit 11-1; Merryman 12-1; Golden Drop, Keratin 16-1; Badmaloch 18-1; Clover Bud, Knightsbrook, Lady Nenagh, Mr. What 20-1; Canobie Lee, Clear Profit, Polar Flight 25-1; Green Trail, Hollybank, Van Flend, Knocktown 33-1.

Those were the only horses quoted at the betting caller in London's Victoria Club, the headquarters of British bookies.

Anatomy of a '60 Plymouth

(AND WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU)

Meet the car that puts cotton in your ears, a cloud where you sit, a smile on your lips. A car so silent, so smart you'll wonder why all cars aren't built this new solid way. A car that's every ounce the greatest Plymouth ever!

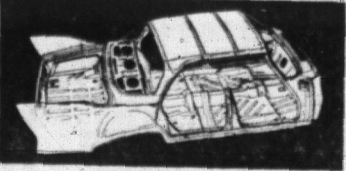

Whisper-quiet riding, the likes of which you've never known, is one wonderful benefit of Plymouth's new Unibody construction. Frame and body are one solid piece, with nary a bolt to jiggle loose and rattle. In tests against body-bolted-to-frame assemblies, Unibody proved one-and-a-half times stronger, twice as twist-resistant and far more durable.

Whistle-provoking beauty goes hand-in-hand with Plymouth's array of engineering changes. Plymouth's new look says "luxury" like no other car in its class. And you'll find Plymouth's contemporary beauty follows you into its roomy interior, adding immeasurably to your riding pleasure. There's just never been a smarter, more satisfying-to-own car!

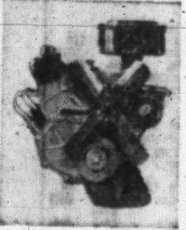

Whisk-away power plus fuel-saving thrift are yours in any of Plymouth's four engines for 1960... from the new 30-D Economy Six to the Golden Commando V-8. Mated with famous TorqueFlite, PowerFlite or manual transmissions, these modern Plymouth power plants put a new kind of go at your toe. You get extra driving pleasure every mile.

A quality product of Chrysler Corporation

Here's Unibody... the strongest automotive structure ever. Solid Unibody cuts twist and sag to survive years of even the most tortuous driving. And to protect your investment, Unibody undergoes a seven-dip weather proofing process that keeps '60 Plymouth free from rust and corrosion year after year.

The only all-new Six in the industry, Plymouth's 30-D Economy Six is inclined 30 degrees (like modern race-car engines) to incorporate separate fuel passages for each cylinder. Unlike ordinary Sixes, the 30-D Economy Six gives you smooth, economical performance plus peak power!

Improved Torsion-Aire teams with new Unibody to top any car ever made in ride and roadability... to keep you more level even on bumpy roads. It's so easy to pull the reins on Plymouth's power with Total-Contact brakes. New 3-platform shoe supports give extra stopping power.

Every part of Plymouth's solid anatomy has been designed with one end in mind: your complete motoring satisfaction. Plymouth has made the changes others have overlooked and, in so doing, has surpassed its class by every measure of comparison. Look at the other cars. But before you buy, drive the solid '60 Plymouth!

Kennedy Shows Strength In First U.S. Primary

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Senator John F. Kennedy has packed new power into his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination with a record-smashing vote in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary election.

He battered down the Republicans' traditional 2-to-1 margin of superiority in the state—and even received several hundred write-in votes on the Republican ballot.

It appeared the Republican vote would top the Democratic tally by no better than 5 to 4.

NEAR IKE'S MARK
Vice-President Richard Nixon running unopposed on the Republican ballot, also gave his admirers cause for excitement. His vote in the presidential preference poll was rolling close to the 56,464 tally racked up by President Eisenhower in the 1956 primary.

With 251 polls of 300 unofficially tabulated, the vote for Kennedy was 38,012. The vote for Nixon from 257 polls was 52,045.

This was the first of several primaries to be held before the party nomination conventions this summer. While they are occasionally regarded as merely "popularity contests," failure of any candidate to win substantial support in any of them would make his convention chances dim.

The New Hampshire primary, as in the case in most states, was not a direct contest between Nixon and Kennedy, since voters must register for either party and vote only on their own party ballot.

BEATS PREDECESSORS
The dimensions of Kennedy's victory emerged by comparison with the last two New Hampshire primaries. While still incomplete, his total already had exceeded the combined Democratic vote of 35,000 for Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and former President Harry Truman eight years ago.

In the 1956 primary, Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson, who later won the nomination, together received 25,000.

It will be the first in an annual series of counselling sessions sponsored by the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs of Victoria.

Students at the opening meeting will be from Esquimalt, Mount Douglas and Mount View High School graduating classes.

Sessions have been arranged for Oak Bay High School students March 23 and for Victoria High School students on April 6.

Estimates for signs are up to $446,295 from $275,160.

'Open Up New Road All Hours'

Opening of the Alberni-Tofino road at all hours during June, July and August was urged in the legislature Tuesday by John Squire (CCF-Alberni).

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said he would consider the proposal.

Mr. Squire noted that the road is closed to the public from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. while it is being used by trucks of the MacMillan, Bloedel logging company.

"Thousands of tourists will travel on this road this summer," Mr. Squire said, "and I don't want to see them backed up outside steel gates waiting for a company official to let them in."

The road was built by MacMillan and Bloedel and Powell River at the Sprout Lake end; the government built the centre, and B.C. Forest Products the Tofino end.

Mr. Squire proposed that the logging companies move their operations away from the road during the tourist season.

This could be the Hangman's Oak.

Is the Churchyard Oak Famed 'Hanging Tree'?

(From Duncan Bureau)
Current Times feature on the beautiful Garry oaks in and around Victoria has received interest in the Duncan area as to whether the beautiful oak in the St. Peter's churchyard cemetery at Quamichan is a "hanging tree."

Certainly an Indian was hanged in the vicinity in 1857, on orders of Governor Sir James Douglas. Indians now claim the hanging was at Comlaken, on Cowichan Bay, and a Quamichan resident said a tree known as hangman's oak was cut down by a farmer 15 years ago.

The question now asked is, with so many doubts about the location of the tree, did old-timers acknowledge the proper oak in the first place?

According to the story, Chief Tathlasut of Somenos band, seeking revenge for seduction of his intended bride, seriously wounded a white man. Governor Douglas borrowed a force of seamen and marines and ordered the young chief hanged.

But apparently Indians did not feel too badly about the case, since it was a slave who was given up to be hanged and not the chief.

ISLAND NEWS BRIEFS

Northern V.I. Ruled Out of Goodwill Cruise

The goodwill cruise of the good ship Sidney won't be any further north than Nanaimo, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said Tuesday.

Questioned about the proposal that the new MV Sidney go on a get-acquainted tour to Island and lower mainland ports, the minister ruled out the mainland, other than the Tsawwassen terminal and ports on the Island, north of Nanaimo.

He explained the insurance covering the vessel, is only good in a limited range of operations.

During questions of his departmental estimates, the minister said he would look into the suggestion of an open-ship event in Victoria.

The good ship of the province certainly should have a look at her, he said.

PORT ALBERNI — Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island 42nd annual meeting will be held March 17, 18 and 19 in the Barclay Hotel here, with Dr. Gordon Shrum heading a list of notable speakers.

Dr. Shrum, head of the UBC physics department, will speak at the annual dinner. Others will be Ernest Evans, director of the B.C. Government Travel Bureau; Lloyd McKenzie, Victoria lawyer; and Marilyn Ardley, Victoria University student council president.

DUNCAN — The Cowichan District Hospital Association, administrators of the King's Daughters' Hospital here, will meet tonight in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Brae Road. The association will consider COBBLE HILL — Funeral services were held here for Johan Frederick Drummond, 80, a resident of Mill Bay for the past 19 years who died in King's Daughters' Hospital Friday following a heart attack.

He was born at Yokohama, Japan, and lived his life in that country until the Second World War, when he fled in his yacht.

Predeceased by one son, James Sinclair Drummond, he is survived by the widow, Frances, at home, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. J. D. Drummond, Mill Bay.

DUNCAN — Logging and milling activities which affect fish life will be discussed here Friday at a meeting of Van-

Topics will be effects on fish of poison sprays used to control forest pests, effects of logging on spawning grounds, and how pulp mill waste affects the ability of fish to live in certain areas.

James Sinclair, former federal fisheries minister, will introduce fisheries representatives, and Dr. D. B. Turner, deputy recreation and conservation minister, will be moderator.

New Bridges Asked by MLA

New bridges at Metchosin, on Atkins Road and in Goldstream Park were requested of the highways department Tuesday by Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquamalt).

'A MILLION THANKS' SAYS GREEK SEAMAN

John Tourounis thanked Victorians for helping his family when he left St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday for his home in Perce, Greece.

He hasn't seen his wife and five children for three years.

The sailor suffered broken bones and severe internal injuries last September when he fell 45 feet into the hold of his ship, the freighter Pacific Pioneer.

During his six months in hospital here, the Sick Mariners' Service Fund took care of his needs. But Victorians raised a fund to help his family because his pay stopped when the ship's owners went bankrupt.

"I am grateful," he said through an interpreter. "I will never forget as long as I live. Thank them all for me a million times."

His trip home was arranged by the Federal Department of Immigration.

PASSMORE'S VIEW WINS

Symphony, Gallery Called 'Luxuries'

The Victoria Art Gallery and Symphony Orchestra are luxuries, in the opinion of Saanich Councillor Leslie Passmore.

At a council meeting Tuesday he gave this reason for opposing a motion to increase grants for the two cultural institutions.

The statement sparked a lively three-way debate between Reeve George Chatterton, Couns. Stanley Murphy and Passmore on the value of the two institutions.

The remainder of the council "sat on the fence."

Said Coun. Passmore: "With unemployment increasing we can't afford such luxuries these days. Times are changing."

Coun. Murphy took the opposite view.

Cultural institutions attract people with means and pen-

B.C. Ready to Build Garibaldi Ski Village

Action Promised If Ottawa Helps

A new move toward preparing Garibaldi Park as a site for the 1968 Winter Olympic Games was outlined today by Premier Bennett.

He said the Province of B.C. would proceed this year to build a ski village in the park if the federal government would put up half the cost.

He said the hope of attracting the Olympics should be a matter of national concern.

Olympic officials had earlier suggested Garibaldi Park has an excellent chance to get the games if those interested started now.

'MAKE IT GENUINE, WE'LL HELP'

If Canada would accept 1,000 tubercular families in the present World Refugee Year program, B.C. would accept its full share for settlement here, Premier Bennett said today.

But he refused to bend on his previous statement the province would not undertake to accept the eight families of European refugees proposed by the federal government.

"If it's a genuine policy we are all for it," the premier said.

He felt the present plan to accept only 100 refugee families was only a token.

CONFERENCE
"Why not call the provinces in for a conference. They call them in for talks on gopher poisons or something like that, why not a conference on this great problem?"

"We're 100 per cent for B.C. to take its share."

He said eventually they will all come to B.C. anyway. "Even what's her name—Gina—she'll only reside in the east a few weeks then she'll be out here too."

ROAD FIRST

Immediate requirements would be a road into the Cheakamus Lake area of the park, and a restaurant, lodge, and two trails.

Premier Bennett said that if the federal government would agree to putting up 50 per cent of the cost, "we'll make the commitment." But he said the federal agreement must come in the form of a letter from Finance Minister Fleming.

Canadian Olympic representative Sydney Dawes said here last week only Banff and Garibaldi would be in the running as Canadian sites for the winter games, and that the Garibaldi area is closer to large population centres.

He said there was immediate need for a businessmen's committee to begin developing the park area before a bid for the games could be made.

Bids for the 1968 games will be called in 1963, and only one bid from Canada will be entertained.

Mr. Dawes suggested that, before thinking about the Olympics, B.C. should think in terms of providing a ski resort both for youth and older people.

DR. PETER SMITH ... to teach at U of V

Native Son Scholar Back As Professor

One of the most brilliant students produced by the local school system will return this fall to teach at the University of Victoria.

Peter Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith of 1764 Cedar Hill Crossroad, has been appointed as an assistant professor of classics, U of V, principal Dr. Harry Hickman announced today.

Currently on the faculty of Carleton University in Ottawa, Dr. Smith also had taught classics at Yale University, the famed American institution where he won MA and Ph.D. degrees in his specialty.

CHIP OFF BLOCK
He is 27. His father is a retired principal of Victoria High School.

Dr. Smith began his education at Margaret Jenkins Elementary School and graduated from Victoria High School in 1949 as the leading B.C. student in matriculation examinations.

—He was the top student at Victoria College the following two years and won the governor-general's gold medal when he graduated from the University of B.C. in 1953.

He spent the following year at post-graduate study in UBC before going to Yale for three years to win two more degrees. After a year of teaching at Yale, he joined the Carleton faculty last year.

Dr. Smith married Mary Jean Levis here in 1957. They have an 18-month-old daughter, Cynthia.

Stolen Wrap Assizes Trial May End Today

Testimony Given By Radio Newsman

A Crown witness testified before an Assize Court jury today that William A. (Bill) Scott, in a telephone conversation on Nov. 27, told him he "thought" he knew the whereabouts of a stolen mink wrap which police were hunting.

Scott is standing trial on a charge of possessing an $825 mink stole which had been stolen from the Hudson's Bay Co. last Nov. 25.

The trial is expected to end late today.

William Pike, a radio news announcer, said he telephoned Scott to ask him if he would take part in a Toastmaster's speech program.

In the telephone conversation, he said, Scott asked him if he knew about the stolen fur.

"I said I did, and Scott answered: 'Police think I have it,'" said the witness.

THINK I KNOW

Mr. Pike said he then asked Scott if he knew where the fur stole was.

Scott replied: "I think I know."

"Then I asked Scott why he didn't report the matter to police," said the witness. "Mr. Scott replied that this would be done all in due course."

He said he met Scott the next day. The accused was shocked that police had laid a charge against him and was convinced of his innocence, he said.

CRACKPOT

Crown counsel Joseph McKenna, Q.C., asked the witness to describe what type of man Mr. Scott was.

"Mr. Scott is a self-acknowledged crackpot," Mr. Pike said. "At first I thought he was a crackpot and eccentric, but as I got to know him, I thought differently. I would now describe him as an individualist and non-conformist."

He said he was a friend of Scott but did not always agree with his ideas.

SCOTT AWAY

On Tuesday, Clayton James Rooney, a part-time helper in Scott's second-hand shop where the stolen fur was recovered, said accused was away from his Broad Street store when the stole was left there.

His evidence substantiated that of Jonathan C. M. Kirk, who is currently serving a five-month jail sentence for theft of the fur.

Police said Courtneil drove west on Fort and his car mounted the northwest curb at Douglas when he passed out.

Three motorists who drove over fire hoses at the scene of Crowe Gonnason sawmill blaze Feb. 27 each were fined $10 when they pleaded guilty to charges in city police court today.

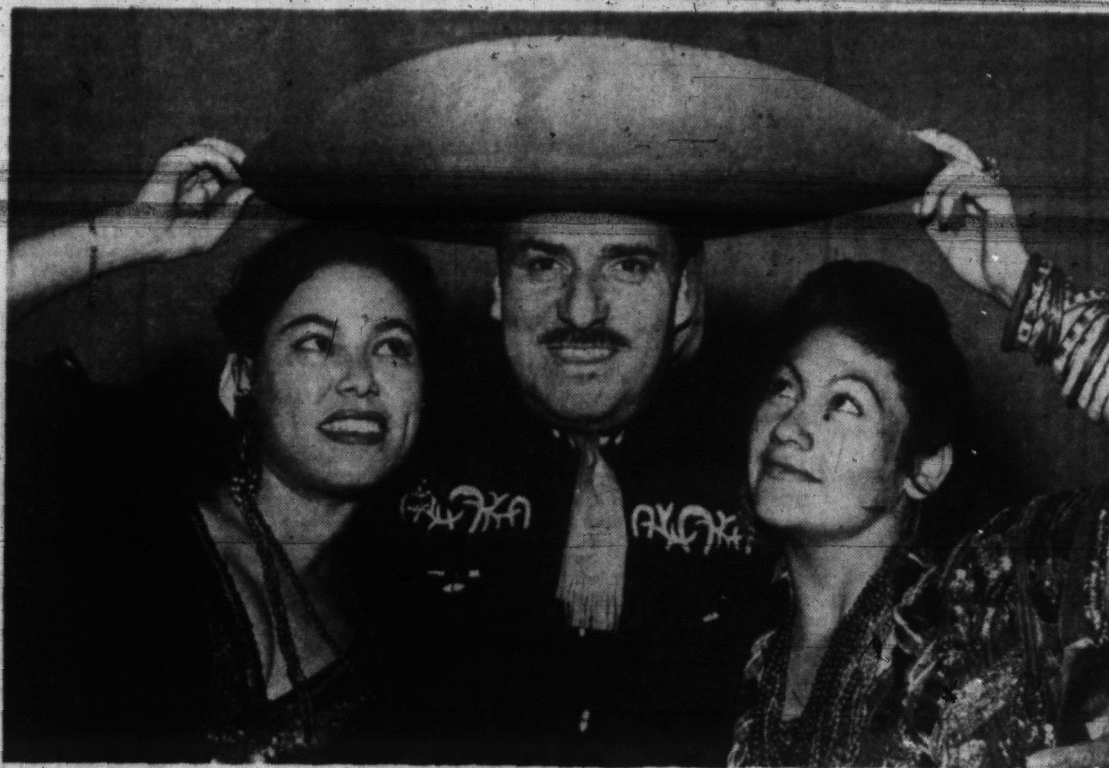

They were David Holder, 1301 Pandora; Lewis Frank Holder, Chandler Hotel; and William Alfred Biers, 1874 Townley.

MONTE ROBERTS

Imagine, man comes all the way from New York to put an old joke in the Old Jokes Home.

Man's name is Howard Kennedy, special representative of Moore-McCormack Lines Ltd., the well-known shipping company, and to prove how anxious he was to get the old joke into the Old Jokes Home, he hurried here by air instead of sea.

And this is the joke, which will be given a suite of honor in the Home:

A very rich old man went to the doctor to find out what was wrong with him.

"Doctor," he said, "I appear to be going all purple in the face with my tongue hanging out and my eyes watering and all like that."

"Hmmm," said the doctor, "you DO appear to be going all purple in the face with your tongue hanging out and your eyes watering and all like that."

"What can I do about it?" asked the rich, old man.

"I don't know," said the doctor, "it is some mysterious disease the cause and cure of which are as yet unknown to medical science."

"It is obvious," said the doctor, "that you are not long for this world. You can't live with your face going all purple and your tongue hanging out and your eyes watering."

"If I were you," said the doctor, "I would go out and spend all your money because you can't take it with you."

So the rich old man went away, with his face going all purple and his tongue hanging out and his eyes watering and all like that, and he began to spend his money.

He bought automobiles for his friends and a yacht for his favorite neighbor and a new vacuum cleaner for his wife.

He bought machine guns for the police force and airplanes for the air force and horses for the Mounties.

But he still had lots of money left, so he decided that, even if he couldn't take it with him, he could spend some on himself.

So he went into a clothing store, with his face all purple and his tongue hanging out and his eyes watering and all like that, and he ordered a dozen suits and two dozen pairs of slacks and a zillion pairs of socks and three dozen white silk shirts.

"What size shirts?" asked the clerk.

"Fourteen," said the rich old man.

"My goodness," said the clerk, "you wear shirts only size 14, your face is apt to go all purple and your tongue hang out and your eyes water and all like that."

'You Show Us' Attitude Meets Airport Pledge

Mayor Percy Scurrell today mixed in a dash of sarcasm in welcoming an overnight announcement by Transport Minister George Hees that a new $1,100,000 terminal will be started this year at Patricia Bay airport.

"Now that Mr. Hees has committed himself, I think we can take it for granted that they will actually go ahead with it—as they have promised on numerous occasions in the past," he said.

The project has been announced as imminent several times in the past three years by government spokesmen, usually Defence Minister George Pearkes.

FLAT-FOOTED

"But this is the first time that Mr. Hees has come out flat-footed and said it was definite," the mayor observed.

"We got some unexpected help from Lionel Chevrier. He was just about right in his remarks."

(The Liberal MP Tuesday described the present terminal as a "glorified chicken coop.")

WON'T DROP IT

Mayor Scurrell said he did not think there was any hope the government would also meet a local request for longer runways this year, "but we're not going to drop it by any means."

He pointed out, however, that the existing runways can accommodate the Viscount airliners expected to replace DC-3 service here.

AND DON'T GET YOUR FEET WET

The transport department's "notice to mariners" announcements usually warn of a buoy swept out of position, a drifting vessel that constitutes a hazard to navigation.

This month a new one was issued.

In the most sober, technical terms, the department has warned seafarers on both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts not to drink sea water.

It reads:

"Information reaching the Department of Transport through the Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization emphasizes the harmful effects of sea water when drunk by shipwrecked mariners. The department wishes to warn mariners and others concerned that, despite any reports to the contrary, present research and experiments indicate that it is dangerous to drink sea water."

Trouble-Hit School Open By April 7

Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School, 99 per cent completed when work was stopped by bankruptcy proceedings, will be completed and ready for use April 7.

Sooke School Board announced today that Alex Park & Son Ltd., of Vancouver, will complete the job under terms of the original contract, and with no extra cost to the board or Sooke School District 62 taxpayers.

Original opening date was Jan. 4, but work ground to a halt Dec. 28 last year when the board was told the contractor, Weismiller Construction Ltd., of Victoria, had filed bankruptcy proceedings.

School board officials said only plumbing and wiring work are yet to be finished.

Responsibility for completion of the eight-room school has been assumed by the bonding company of the original contractor. Contract was for $99,800.

Driver Faints, Car Scatters Pedestrians

A small car with its driver slumped over the wheel rolled out of control along a downtown sidewalk narrowly missing morning crowds before it came to rest between store windows and parked autos at 8:20 a.m. today.

City police took driver James Courtneil, 28, of 1078 Deal, to St. Joseph's Hospital for a check-up after he apparently fainted and lost control of his car.

He went later to Royal Jubilee Hospital for examination and was discharged.

Police said Courtneil drove west on Fort and his car mounted the northwest curb at Douglas when he passed out.

Phony Stock-Selling Curbs Welcomed by City Traders

Victoria investment dealers with and support the attorney today gave qualified support to new legislation in the enactment of government legislation designed to curb activities of disreputable stock peddlers.

Such legislation should if possible not interfere with traditional methods of operations, used by a great majority of reputable and responsible dealers.

Mr. Ruthven is scheduled to attend a meeting of the area IDA in Vancouver Thursday. He said the question of legislation to curb stock peddlers will be on the agenda.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A "very good view" of an infrequent lunar eclipse will be seen by Victorians late Saturday night if the sky is clear.

Dr. E. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here, said today that the earth's shadow will begin covering the full moon at 10:58 p.m. Saturday.

Between 11:41 and 1:18 a.m. Sunday the moon will be totally blotted out. At 2:18 a.m. the full moon will be visible again.

"These eclipses can be seen every few years," said Dr. Petrie.

Mayor Wants Victoria to Study Bargain Price U.S. Auditorium

Mayor Percy Scurrell today returned to his office after a Palm Springs holiday filled with enthusiasm for a civic auditorium project completed there in the past year.

"I was really impressed with it," he said. "It cost only $450 a seat to build whereas the usual figure is about $1,000," he said.

The Palm Springs auditorium is a conventional structure seating 1,100 with a large stage, some dressing rooms, wide aisles, comfortable seats on a sloping floor and perfect acoustics.

"It was the kind of thing that would be adequate for us although we would need more seating. I certainly think we should get some details from them."

He said that building costs were held down by thorough pre-construction studies "to find every possible way of saving a dime while complying with the building code."

Missing Boy Found

Peter Havas, 13, of 1106 Fort, who was reported missing from home Monday night, was to be returned to Victoria today from Vancouver, where he was located Tuesday afternoon.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Can the public attend the "spring court" underway on Bastion Street? E.G.

A. Yes, it's an open court, the Spring Assizes, which started Tuesday. Court sittings are generally from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 2:30 p.m. to it depends.

Q. Are electric heaters with fans expensive to run and do they make much difference on a light bill? E.M.

A. Rates vary depending on the overall electricity consumption in the home. They vary so much on circumstances you would be well advised to ask the B.C. Electric for information. They'll send a representative to your place of residence on request for an evaluation.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and not of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve common sports or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers. Anyone wishing a question answered should send it to the Editor, The Times, 1100 Fort Street, Victoria, B.C. Questions and answers will be published daily.

From Haney to Courtenay To Officiate at Wedding

Rev. Evaldo Filippini, brother-in-law of the groom, travelled from Haney, B.C., to officiate at recent wedding of Miss Doreen Joan Schooley and David Henry Lapp in Four-square Gospel Church, Courtenay. Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schooley of Victoria, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Alice Lapp, Courtenay, and the late George Lapp.

Tulips, daffodils and ferns decorated the church for the ceremony. Mrs. M. Card, sister of the groom, sang "Because" during the service. Organist was Mrs. G. Cormons.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her ballerina length gown of net-over-satin featured a bateau neckline. Lovers knots were embroidered on chapel length veil that was held in place by a Juliet cap trimmed with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. E. Mangles, sister of the groom, was gown in coral pink net with matching floral bandeau. Pink carnations formed her bouquet. Bridesmaid, Miss D.

Martin, wore a gown of blue net with flowered bandeau to match. She carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Daffodils flanked three-tier wedding cake at head-table at a reception held in the Elks Hall following the ceremony. Cake had been made by Mrs. R. Harris and decorated by the groom. Charles Odium, an old friend of the family, proposed the bridal toast.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. B. Lanyon, Mr. and Mrs. E. Schooley, Mrs. I. Branson, all of Victoria; W. De Poorter, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. C. Odium, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cupit and Marilyn Cupit, all of Vancouver.

Rocks are the hobby of Mr. and Mrs. William Erichsen. Their artistry turns them into exquisite jewelry and other attractive pieces.

Workshop in Basement of Home

By JUDY NICHOLSON

Most women would shudder at having a house full of rocks! But Mrs. William Erichsen encourages her husband to bring in more and more rocks in every shape and size.

"Collecting them is his hobby," she explains, "come, see what he does with rocks when he gets them!"

Down in the basement of the family home on Lansdowne Road there are two rooms literally crammed with minerals! Show cases hold such winking treasures as variscite, quartz, galena, uranium, diamonds, opals and amber.

In Mr. Erichsen's workroom (as neat as the proverbial pin) walls are lined with special equipment for refining these stones.

Mr. Erichsen looks proudly at his equipment and says: "I made all these tools including setting up of a diamond saw, lap wheel and tumbler."

Gladys Erichsen has her own little corner in the workroom.

"I've been doing lapidary work for six years," she says, "but I'm an amateur compared to Bill!"

How did this interest in rocks start. He explains:

"When I was a small boy in Yorkton, Sask., I often played with my pals in a gravel pit near my home. The pit was full of interesting stones and I began to collect them. That childhood interest turned into a life-long hobby when I grew up."

Bill Erichsen has travelled to many parts of the world looking for rocks. "He's been to Africa, Egypt, Europe, United States and many parts of Canada searching for stones," says his attractive wife.

Favorite hunting ground for this interesting couple is along the Fraser River where they find jade.

"That river is full of this beautiful green stone," they say. In a brightly lit showcase there are bracelets, earrings and other pieces of jewelry to prove their statement.

"Bill did all the work on these pieces," says his wife. One bracelet of jade is held by tiny gold links.

"I panned for the gold in those links," explains Bill. "My wife and I often go out to the Sooke River and look for gold... and we do find it!"

As this work is all a hobby for the couple, none of it is sold, Mrs. Erichsen explains. "What I don't wear or use in the house, we give as presents to our friends."

Lapidary work, according to the two artists is simple once a person catches on to it. "With a little knowledge of stones and know-how on using equipment anyone can take up this fascinating hobby."

Only thing is that once you get interested... your involvement in a time-consuming hobby.

"Sometimes, I don't see Bill for hours," says Gladys, laughingly.

"He retires into the depths of the basement and that's it. But he's happy, and that's the main thing."

Couple take many trips in the warmer months in their search for minerals.

"There are a lot of odd and different types of rocks in British Columbia and down the Pacific coast. We concentrate on these areas," Bill says.

They load their findings into the back of the car and head home to spend the winter months polishing stones and making them into furniture, small desk and table accessories, lamps and lamp shades, jewelry and plaques.

Lapidary work is not their only hobby... not on your life!

"Both Bill and I are keen members of Victoria Curling Club," explains Gladys. "He is in the men's evening division and I belong to the ladies' afternoon group. It gives us a break away from our stones!"

Youth Work Increase in Diocese

Increased interest in youth work was lauded by diocesan president, Mrs. B. P. Harding, in her report at opening session of the 55th annual meeting of the B.C. Diocesan board of the Anglican Women's Auxiliary, Tuesday afternoon in Memorial Hall.

The report showed that there had been new branches formed in both girls' auxiliary and juniors' work. Mrs. Harding also pointed out that there had been much interest shown in Christian vocations rallies.

The field of Christian endeavor, has created an interest among many young girls looking ahead to their life's work," she said.

The diocesan president challenged the meeting to work toward an increased membership within the diocese on this the 75th anniversary of the Auxiliary in Canada.

Looking toward the future, Mrs. Harding concluded with "we can accomplish much if we build together with God."

Women of Nigeria Now Free; Being Educated

Nigerian women, "until recently regarded as slaves" are now being educated, Rev. Cornelius Olowomeye told Tuesday evening meeting of the B.C. diocesan board of the Anglican Women's Auxiliary in St. John's Church Hall.

"Polygamy is being stamped out and most young men now only have one wife," he said, "and in two or three regions women are now allowed to vote."

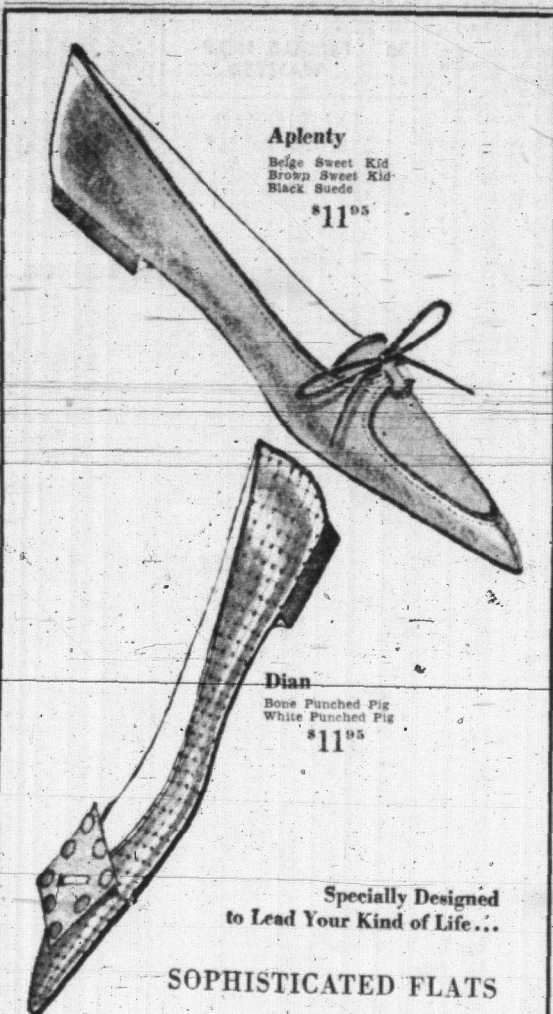

Rev. Olowomeye was born in Nigeria and ordained in 1957 by Bishop of Sierra Leone. He is presently a student at Anglican Theological College at University of British Columbia.

There are 31 million people in Nigeria, he told his audience. These are divided into three regions, each with its own houses of parliament and with white people as advisers. (Nigeria is to receive its independence in October this year.)

The more than 200 tribes each have their own dialect, he said. "Owing to this speech barrier they used to stay much on their own, no mixing with others."

"With the coming of the British people, the English language was taught to all, and from then on the tribes were able to communicate on a common language basis."

"Today there are six million

Occupants of a car that turned turtle in James Bay Monday night were not upset - they climbed out, righted their vehicle and drove away.

Police were told at 1.50 a.m. that a gold-colored European car had rolled onto a lawn and hedge at 60 Menzies.

Ten minutes later police found the car parked at 438 Dallas, the home of its driver, Gene Campbell, who explained that he drove south on Menzies when he braked sharply to avoid a dog or cat that ran in front of the car, then skidded on wet pavement into a curb and tipped over.

No one was hurt.

RAILWAY

PGE construction north of Prince George. "We only got it on the first 50 miles."

"If Ottawa is genuine in this offer, it will forthwith give this subsidy and it will amount to many millions." He said he had made the agreement for PGE with the St. Laurent government, but the present Conservative government had issued no policy.

The premier was asked if there is anything in the Wenner-Gren agreement which guarantees the firm will do more than lay 100 yards of track before the deadline and then abandon the project.

BINDING FACT

"I think the agreement is definite that they are to build the railway. I don't know where these doubters come from," said the premier.

"You'll see more than 100 yards of track before the next election," he said.

"But it doesn't stipulate that in the agreement," a reporter persisted.

"No," admitted the premier. "But you'll see the results."

NO BUILDING

The Ottawa announcement said the CNR has offered to co-operate the Wenner-Gren interests or the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in providing rail service to northwestern B.C., The Yukon and Alaska.

But the government-owned line does not intend taking an active role in construction of such a northern railway.

Instead, it hopes to convince the railroad-building agency - either Wenner-Gren or the PGE - to build any new line on the CNR's Prince George-Prince Rupert route, saving $30,000,000 in duplication of rail facilities.

The CNR offer, according to a company spokesman, entails the exchange of running rights.

Although no definite announcement has been made of the Wenner-Gren plans for a northern railroad, company statements have indicated it would run north from Summit Lake, far to the east of the CNR's proposed terminus at New Hazelton.

The CNR plan, said the company, would save 200 miles of railroad building.

The offer was made to Premier Bennett last fall.

Mr. Gordon has received no official reply from the premier.

The two men were to have met personally to discuss the offer in January, at the opening of the B.C. Legislature, but the premier's illness prevented the meeting from taking place.

No new meeting has been arranged.

The CNR has not been in touch with the Wenner-Gren promoters.

SOLUTION, FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Ann McBain, aged 10, of St. Catharines, Ont., for her question:

Is There An Antarctic Ocean?

Some maps show no Antarctic Ocean at all. Some show the body of water which surrounds the icy continent of Antarctica to be an ocean in its own right. So we may call this water the Antarctic Ocean or not, as we choose. Actually, it is very hard to say where one ocean leaves off and another begins. For, all of them are connected with each other.

On a world map or a globe, you can see that the Indian Ocean reaches all the way southward to lap at the icy shores of Antarctica. So do the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. A globe or a great circle map shows that Antarctica is centred in the midst of ocean water. It is rough and icy water, sweeping in an endless eddy around the icebound shores.

Perhaps, since this water has its own system of currents, we should call it an ocean in its own right. And there is another reason why we should. The region of Antarctica is no longer the neglected bottom of the world. In recent years, we have started to give it a thorough physical examination. For Antarctica was one of the big projects of the International Geophysical Year. Teams of scientists from many nations were down there and all sorts of new things were discovered.

One startling discovery was the amount of ice at the bottom of the world. It is now estimated to be more than six and a-half million cubic miles twice as much ice as it was thought was there. Should it ever melt, this ice would swamp many of our cities, including sail but the dome of the Capitol building in Washington, D.C. The scientists suggest that there may be a relationship between the south polar ice and world weather.

True, there are sheer icy cliffs and glaciers two miles thick. But there are also bare patches above the ice and a few lakes warm enough to contain green algae. What's more, Antarctica may not be a solid continent. It may be ice sheets over a series of islands.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Greg, aged 12, of Wichita, Kansas, for his question: "How much of the earth's surface is above water?" On a globe or a map of the world, the earth seems to be a very watery planet. And so it is. If we divide the surface of the earth into 100 equal parts, only 29 of these parts are high enough to poke up above the water. The great oceans and their various gulfs and seas cover an area of some 140,500,000 square miles.

On an average, the seas are between two and a half and turned up many surprises.

U.S. SCHEME HELD TOO COSTLY

Go Slow Decision On Pension Plan

BY TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Health Minister Waldo Monteleith has strongly indicated the government does not feel Canadians can afford an old age security program equivalent to that of the United States.

In a policy statement on the Clark Report on the U.S. social security system, the minister held out little hope that any changes would be made in the Canadian system of old age pensions for some years.

6% TOTAL

Mr. Monteleith said the U.S. program is based on 3 per cent contributions from both employers and employees, totaling 6 per cent of an individual's pay cheque.

"If we were to accept the fact that the average per capita income of Canadians, including those in their active working years, is 30 per cent below that in the U.S., the question that presents itself is this:

"How can we expect, other than establishing contribution rates that are proportionately higher, to achieve a level of pension benefits equal to the American level?"

30% LOWER

The health minister said that "we should ask ourselves in Canada whether or not we are prepared to pay contribution rates which are proportionately higher than those in the U.S. on incomes which are 30 per cent lower in order to

The proposed Wenner-Gren railway between Prince George and the Yukon border will be well under way before the next election, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in an interview this morning.

He was commenting on an Ottawa story stating that CN president Donald Gordon had twice offered to assist the province in public construction of such a railway. The story said the Ottawa aid would mean a savings of $30,000,000 to the project.

OFFERED TO SELL

"I notice Mr. Gordon says he has written to the province of B.C.," said the premier. He pointed out, when the PGE was under construction "we not only sought federal assistance but also CNR assistance on the PGE. We offered to sell it to the CNR."

"We got no co-operation at all. Now, years after, when we have a different railway to build, when we have an agreement with another firm, the CNR comes out belatedly."

But has the government a definite agreement for the Wenner-Gren construction? he was asked.

"You've seen the agreement. It is a binding agreement with individuals," the premier replied.

FUNDAMENTAL

"Here we are faced with a fundamental question," he said. "Do we prefer a graduated rate pension, in the U.S., the old age payments are based on income. The higher the income, the higher the benefits."

He said the Canadian system stems from "the principle of subsistence benefits which Lord Beyeridge described as implying that everyone should have bread before anyone has cake."

The alternative is to superimpose a graduated system on top of the flat-rate benefit system.

In other words, there would be a basic payment, and no matter how low their income, no one would receive less. Those in the higher income brackets, who contribute more to the pension fund, would receive additional benefits based on their contribution.

GRADUATED

The British, said Mr. Monteleith, have recently amended their flat-rate system, to provide a supplementary graduated system.

And here he gave an indication of the government's go-slow policy.

"We shall, of course, follow further developments relating to the new British plan with the greatest interest."

Columbia Plan Lost Friend In Neuberger

Liberals are sorry to hear of the death of Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, Oregon progressive party leader Ray Perrault said today.

Neuberger, 57, died of a heart attack after a long illness. He was elected representative in the American Northwest pressing for an agreement," he said.

"Of all the enthusiasts for a Columbia agreement, he was the greatest, and his death is most unfortunate."

U.S. BREAK WITH CUBA POSSIBLE, SAYS HERTER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today the United States eventually might have to consider breaking relations with Cuba, but that he hopes things would never come to that stage.

Herter told a news conference that no consideration is being given at this time to such drastic action despite Premier Fidel Castro's apparent determination to keep trouble stirred up between the two countries.

Herter charged again that Castro has tried to turn grief over the deaths of those killed in the Havana explosion of a munition ship into animosity against the United States.

Highways Minister Gagliardi's protests thundered through the legislature Tuesday as he fought Opposition charges of highway contract patronage.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan knit a tangled web of contract awards to an ever-changing list of contracting firms, which despite name changes and changes in directorship, appeared to involve the same principals over and over.

The names Mr. Strachan used included those of former Social Credit candidates and linked with officials of the B.C. Social Credit League.

"I am more convinced than ever that contracts are being

'Wild . . . Fantastic' Says Gagliardi

But Mr. Gagliardi summed up Mr. Strachan's remarks as "wild, fantastic and unrelated, absurd statements . . . insinuations aimed at grabbing headlines and tearing down reputations and the moral fibre of the government."

He shouted that nobody ever gets contracts from his department except through competitive bidding and his department advisers examine the bids and make the recommendations.

In eight years, only 2 per cent of firms taking government contracts had got into financial difficulties, he said.

He admitted that in almost every contract awarded, the final cost is greater than the contract price, but explained this was because factors unknown at the time of signing boosted the cost.

The minister roared his disapproval of a scheme suggested by contractors—that of preparing a list of "pre-qualified contractors" who would alone be able to bid for government work.

"That's a closed shop," he said.

He belittled the opposition there is no political or personal patronage. As far as his department is concerned, if it is to be blamed

Ike Decides Against High Berlin Flights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has decided against having U.S. planes make high-level flights to Berlin in defiance of Russian objections, State Secretary Christian A. Herter disclosed today.

Herter said United States, Britain and France are fully agreed they have a right to make flights above 10,000 feet, which Russia insists is an agreed ceiling.

But, he said, the U.S. government now has decided there is no technical necessity for such flights and therefore the president has ruled against them.

LOGAN, W.Va. (UPI)—after rescue workers, who had reached a spot 1,500 feet from the trapped men, said a stubborn, gas-sprewing fire which prevented rescue earlier had broken out again.

The tappings were confirmed by officials, who investigated after an unidentified boy reported hearing them when he walked past the ventilating shaft.

However, a five-man investigating team which was sent to the shaft reported hearing no sounds and the men were recalled to aid the main rescue force.

Jet Pilot Strafes Indonesia Palace

JAKARTA, Indonesia (CP)—An Indonesian Air Force pilot who strafed President Sukarno's palace here today has been captured by army officials inside rebel-infested West Java territory, air force sources said tonight.

He was identified as Lieut. Daniel Maukar. He bailed out of his MIG-17 jet fighter near Gunung Haruman.

The source said the pilot was on a training flight with other aircraft when he broke away to make the attack on the presidential palace.

Sixteen persons were injured, including a worker and a sentry at Sukarno's Jakarta palace. President Sukarno and his family escaped injury.

Fourteen persons were injured as the young pilot also strafed the resort village of Tjilatjil.

ATTACK RUMORED

Rumors swept Jakarta of an attack on the capital's port of Tanjung Priok and other places in West Java. Cable lines out of the city were closed promptly.

An army spokesman in a public announcement said the government was investigating the shooting and urged Indonesians to keep calm and trust the government.

The young pilot, a lieutenant whose father was recently arrested for unlawful possession of arms, took off with three other MIGs on a training flight.

He peeled off from the formation and dived in at Sukarno's "Freedom Palace," coming from the south out of an overcast sky.

A hail of bullets smashed into the stonework and whistled down wide corridors of the palace. Some generated into the president's dining room.

A sentry was wounded in the leg and a workman plastering in front of the building was wounded in the back.

Sukarno at the time was next door to the palace in his cabinet room attending a meeting of his supreme advisory council.

SCHOOLBOY PLUTOCRATS SQUANDER $67,000 LOOT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Young Australian schoolboys paid their schoolmates $5 a day to carry their books to school after a school strike for the first time.

Police found a black wooden box, police reported today.

Other boys gave their young sisters 10 shillings a day to "keep out of the way and not annoy them," and others paid £20 to young friends for stamps or other things they coveted.

Police said a young schoolboy played a prank one day last November and found the loot.

They said the boy found the money while playing among gear belonging to a schoolmate who had been killed.

Bullen, denied that the money was his.

Police now believe the money was the proceeds of a series of robberies.

After making the find, the schoolboy grabbed a handful of notes and ran home, police reported. Eventually, about 20 boys were in the know and millionaire-type tips began changing hands at school.

Less than half the money was left when police found it, officers said.

Philip To Give Bride Away

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret will be married at Westminster Abbey May 6 with the Archbishop of Canterbury officiating, Buckingham Palace announced today.

Prince Philip, husband of the Queen and Margaret's brother-in-law will give the bride away.

It has been generally expected that Margaret's fiancé, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, will be elevated to the peerage before the wedding takes place.

The palace announcement did not touch on this point, however.

The Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, also was married at the abbey on Nov. 20, 1947. The archbishop, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, head of the Church of England, also officiated at that wedding.

BRIEF ANNOUNCEMENT

Today's brief announcement said:

"The marriage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret with Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones will be solemnized at Westminster Abbey on the morning of Friday, May 6, at 11.30 o'clock."

The statement was dated from Clarence House, London home of the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Accredited court correspondents at Buckingham Palace were officially informed of the additional details, including the role to be played by Prince Philip and the archbishop.

The bridesmaids and best man were not named.

NEARING THIRTY

The marriage will take place 2½ months short of Margaret's 30th birthday, which falls on Aug. 21.

Armstrong-Jones reached his 30th birthday two days ago.

The wedding will take place only three days after the beginning of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London, so it is assumed that the visiting Commonwealth statesmen, including Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker, will be among the guests.

The Daily Mail, which correctly predicted the date in this morning's editions, says Princess Alexandra and little Princess Anne are certain to be bridesmaids, and that Prince Charles, heir-apparent to the throne, might be a page.

May 6 is a date of family significance. It will mark the 50th anniversary of the death of Edward VII, great-grandfather of the princess. It is also the anniversary of the accession to the Throne of King George V.

The wedding is likely to jam London with the biggest crowds since Elizabeth's coronation in 1953.

The Daily Mirror says Armstrong-Jones, who has had some experience as a designer of women's sports togs, is designing Margaret's wedding dress.

"He has already completed the rough sketches which will form the basic plan for the royal dressmaker," the newspaper says, "and he is now discussing his ideas with the princess."

The BBC has asked the Lord Chamberlain for permission to televise the wedding ceremony, as it televised the Coronation, but no reply has yet been received.

The Queen's own wedding ceremony was neither televised nor filmed, although films of the wedding procession were taken inside the abbey.

PHIL'S GONE 'SIGN-HAPPY'

Highways Minister Phillip Gagliardi is "the most sign-happy" minister B.C. has ever had, John Squire (CCF, Alberni) said in the legislature Tuesday.

"You are plastering highway signs from here to eternity. Let's stop playing like children. These signs are nothing but a political gimmick," said Mr. Squire during consideration of highway estimates.

Estimates for signs are up to $446,295 from $275,160.

SEATTLE (AP)—Great Northern Railway will discontinue its evening train service between Seattle and Vancouver, B.C. after March 31, company president John M. Budd reported Tuesday.

day's New Hampshire primary election.

He battered down the Republicans' traditional 2-to-1 margin of superiority in the state—and even received several hundred write-in votes on the Republican ballot.

It appeared the Republican vote would top the Democratic tally by no better than 5 to 4.

NEAR IKE'S MARK

Vice President Richard Nixon running unopposed on the Republican ballot, also gave his admirers cause for excitement. His vote in the presidential preference poll was rolling close to the 56,464 tally racked up by President Eisenhower in the 1956 primary.

With 251 polls of 300 unofficially tabulated, the vote for Kennedy was 38,012. The vote for Nixon from 237 polls was 52,045.

This was the first of several primaries to be held before the party nomination conventions this summer. While they are occasionally regarded as merely "popularity contests," failure of any candidate to win substantial support in any of them would make his convention chances dim.

The New Hampshire primary, as in the case in most states, was not a direct contest between Nixon and Kennedy, since voters must register for either party and vote only on their own party ballot.

BEATS PREDECESSORS

The dimensions of Kennedy's victory emerged by comparison with the last two New Hampshire primaries. While still incomplete, his total already had exceeded the combined Democratic vote of 35,000 for Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and former President Harry Truman eight years ago.

In the 1956 primary, Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson, who later won the nomination, together received 25,000.

MONTE ROBERTS

Imagine, man comes all the way from New York to put an old joke in the Old Jokes Home.

Man's name is Howard Kennedy, special representative of Moore-McCormack Lines Ltd., the well-known shipping company, and to prove how anxious he was to get the old joke into the Old Jokes Home, he hurried here by air instead of sea.

And this is the joke, which will be given a suite of honor in the home:

A very rich old man went to the doctor to find out what was wrong with him.

"Doctor," he said, "I appear to be going all purple in the face with my tongue hanging out and my eyes watering and all like that."

"Hmmm," said the doctor, "you DO appear to be going all purple in the face with your tongue hanging out and your eyes watering and all like that."

"What can I do about it?" asked the rich, old man.

"I don't know," said the doctor, "it is some mysterious disease the cause and cure of which are as yet unknown to medical science."

"It is obvious," said the doctor, "that you are not long for this world. You can't live with your face going all purple and your tongue hanging out and your eyes watering."

"If I were you," said the doctor, "I would go out and spend all your money because you can't take it with you."

So the rich old man went away, with his face going all purple and his tongue hanging out and his eyes watering and all like that, and he began to spend his money.

He bought automobiles for his friends and a yacht for his favorite neighbor and a new vacuum cleaner for his wife.

He bought machine guns for the police force and airplanes for the air force and horses for the Mounties.

But he still had lots of money left, so he decided that, even if he couldn't take it with him, he could spend some on himself.

So he went into a clothing store, with his face all purple and his tongue hanging out and his eyes watering and all like that, and he ordered a dozen suits and two dozen pairs of slacks and a zillion pairs of socks and three dozen white silk shirts.

"What size shirts?" asked the clerk.

"Fourteen," said the rich old man.

"My goodness," said the clerk, "you wear shirts only size 14, your face is apt to go all purple and your tongue hang out and your eyes water and all like that."

'You Show Us' Attitude Meets Airport Pledge

Mayor Percy Scourrah today mixed in a dash of sarcasm in welcoming an overnight announcement by Transport Minister George Hees that a new $1,100,000 terminal will be started this year at Patricia Bay airport.

"Now that Mr. Hees has committed himself, I think we can take it for granted that they will actually go ahead with it—as they have promised on numerous occasions in the past," he said.

The project has been announced as imminent several times in the past three years by government spokesmen, usually Defence Minister George Pearkes.

"FLAT-FOOTED"

"But this is the first time that Mr. Hees has come out flat-footed and said it was definite," the mayor observed.

"We got some unexpected help from Lionel Chevrier. He was just about right in his remarks."

The Liberal MP Tuesday described the present terminal as a "glorified chicken coop."

WON'T DROP IT

Mayor Scourrah said he did not think there was any hope the government would also meet a local request for longer runways this year, "but we're not going to drop it by any means."

He pointed out, however, that the existing runways can accommodate the Viscount airliners expected to replace DC-3 service here.

AND DON'T GET YOUR FEET WET

The transport department's "notice to mariners" announcements usually warn of a buoy swept out of position, a light-house out of action, or a drifting vessel that constitutes a hazard to navigation.

This month a new one was issued.

In the most sober, technical terms, the department has warned seafarers on both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts not to drink sea water.

It reads:

"Information reaching the Department of Transport through the Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization emphasizes the harmful effects of sea water when drunk by shipwrecked mariners. The department wishes to warn mariners and others concerned that, despite any reports to the contrary, present research and experiments indicate that it is dangerous to drink sea water."

"I said I did, and Scott answered: 'Police think I have it,' said the witness."

THINK I KNOW

Mr. Pike said he then asked Scott if he knew where the fur stole was.

Scott replied: "I think I know."

"Then I asked Scott why he didn't report the matter to police," said the witness. "Mr. Scott replied that this would be done all in due course."

He said he met Scott the next day. The accused was shocked that police had laid a charge against him and was convinced of his innocence, he said.

CRACKPOT

Crown counsel Joseph McKenna, Q.C., asked the witness to describe what type of man Mr. Scott was.

"Mr. Scott is a self-acknowledged crackpot," Mr. Pike said. "At first I thought he was a crackpot and eccentric, but as I got to know him, I thought differently. I would now describe him as an individualist and non-conformist."

He said he was a friend of Scott but did not always agree with his ideas.

SCOTT AWAY

On Tuesday, Clayton James Rooney, a part-time helper in Scott's second-hand shop where the stolen fur was recovered, said accused was away from his Broad Street store when the stole was left there.

His evidence substantiated that of Jonathan C. M. Kirk, who is currently serving a five-month jail sentence for theft of the fur.

Stolen Wrap Assizes Trial May End Today

Testimony Given By Radio Newsman

A Crown witness testified before an Assize Court jury today that William A. (Bill) Scott, in a telephone conversation on Nov. 27, told him he "thought" he knew the whereabouts of a stolen mink wrap which police were hunting.

Scott is standing trial on a charge of possessing a $825 mink stole which had been stolen from the Hudson's Bay Co. last Nov. 25.

The trial is expected to end late today.

William Pike, a radio news announcer, said he telephoned Scott to ask him if he would take part in a Toastmaster's speech program.

In the telephone conversation, he said, Scott asked him if he knew about the stolen fur.

"I said I did, and Scott answered: 'Police think I have it,' said the witness."

Mr. Pike said he then asked Scott if he knew where the fur stole was.

DR. PETER SMITH ... to teach at U of V

Native Son Scholar Back As Professor

One of the most brilliant students produced by the local school system will return this fall to teach at the University of Victoria.

Peter Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith of 1764 Cedar Hill Crossroad, has been appointed as an assistant professor of classics, U of V, principal Dr. Harry Hickman announced today.

Currently on the faculty of Carleton University in Ottawa, Dr. Smith also had taught classics at Yale University, the famed American institution where he won MA and Ph.D. degrees in his specialty.

CHIP OFF BLOCK

He is 27. His father is a retired principal of Victoria High School.

Dr. Smith began his education at Margaret Jenkins Elementary School and graduated from Victoria High School in 1949 as the leading B.C. student in matriculation examinations.

He was the top student at Victoria College the following two years and won the governor-general's gold medal when he graduated from the University of B.C. in 1953.

He spent the following year at post-graduate study in UBC before going to Yale for three years to win two more degrees. After a year of teaching at Yale, he joined the Carleton faculty last year.

Dr. Smith married Mary Jean Levis here in 1957. They have an 18-month-old daughter, Cynthia.

Action Promised If Ottawa Helps

A new move toward preparing Garibaldi Park as a site for the 1968 Winter Olympic Games was outlined today by Premier Bennett.

He said the Province of B.C. would proceed this year to build a ski village in the park if the federal government would put up half the cost.

He said the hope of attracting the Olympics should be a matter of national concern.

Olympic officials had earlier suggested Garibaldi Park has an excellent chance to get the games if those interested started now.

ROAD FIRST

Immediate requirements would be a road into the Chekamus Lake area of the park, and a restaurant, lodge, and two trails.

Premier Bennett said that, if the federal government would agree to putting up 50 per cent of the cost, "we'll make the commitment." But he said the federal agreement must come in the form of a letter from Finance Minister Fleming.

Canadian Olympic representative Sydney Daves said here last week only Banff and Garibaldi would be in the running as Canadian sites for the winter games, and that the Garibaldi area is closer to large population centres.

He said there was immediate need for a businessmen's committee to begin developing the park area before a bid for the games could be made.

Bids for the 1968 games will be called in 1963, and only one bid from Canada will be entertained.

Mr. Daves suggested that, before thinking about the Olympics, B.C. should think in terms of providing a ski resort both for youth and older people.

He said eventually they will all come to B.C. anyway.

"Even what's her name—Gina—she'll only reside in the east a few weeks then she'll be out here too."

CONFERENCE

"Why not call the provinces in for a conference. They call them in for talks on gopher poisons or something like that. Why not a conference on this great problem?"

"We're 100 per cent for B.C. to take its share."

He said eventually they will all come to B.C. anyway. "Even what's her name—Gina—she'll only reside in the east a few weeks then she'll be out here too."

Mayor Wants Victoria to Study Bargain Price U.S. Auditorium

Mayor Percy Scourrah today returned to his office after a Palm Springs holiday filled with enthusiasm for a civic auditorium project completed there in the past year.

"I was really impressed with it," he said. "It cost only $450 a seat to build whereas the usual figure is about $1,000," he said.

The Palm Springs auditorium is a conventional structure seating 1,100 with a large stage, some dressing rooms, wide aisles, comfortable seats on a sloping floor and perfect acoustics.

"It was the kind of thing that would be adequate for us although we would need more seating. I certainly think we should get some details from them."

He said that building costs were held down by thorough pre-construction studies "to find every possible way of saving a dime while complying with the building code."

Missing Boy Found

Peter Hayes, 13, of 1106 Fort, who was reported missing from home Monday night, was to be returned to Victoria today from Vancouver, where he was located Tuesday afternoon.

Members of the legislature sat for a group photograph in the legislative chamber this morning—which veteran parliamentarians always say is a sign of an election.

Though they left their seats moments later, they were expected to warm them for long hours late today and Thursday. With the government seeking to prorogue Friday, March 18, it was held likely there would be night sittings tonight and Thursday and Wednesday, Wednesday and Thursday next week.

Did 'Stranger' Commit Mass Killings?

EDMONTON (CP) — Giffard Main, lawyer for convicted slayer Robert Raymond Cook, 23, today told the Alberta Supreme Court that a shotgun found at the scene of the June murder of Cook's father Raymond, 53, indicated that a stranger to the household could have committed the murder.

Same Builders Get Road Jobs Says Strachan

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

Highways Minister Gagliardi's protests thundered through the legislature Tuesday as he fought Opposition charges of highway contract patronage.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan knitted a tangled web of contract awards to an ever-changing list of contracting firms, which despite name changes and changes in directorship, appeared to involve the same principals over and over.

The names Mr. Strachan used included those of former Social Credit candidates and persons linked with B.C. Social Credit League officials.

"I am more convinced than ever that contracts are being handled in a manner injurious to the public purse," he said.

Contracts, he claimed, are awarded without regard for stability and experience, with the taxpayer paying for what often results in "shoddy work."

Mr. Strachan accused the minister of refusing to disclose details of contract awards and voting in the House against tabling of correspondence with some of the firms involved.

He challenged the minister to reveal an RCMP report following an investigation of a contract last August.

of some $12,000,000 of government road-building contracts.

Mr. Strachan recalled that after an RCMP investigation was held into a project which was let to L. & M. Logging Company, a newspaper said the regional mechanical superintendent for the department of highways at Kamloops resigned his job.

It was revealed, said Mr. Strachan, that he was a director of a company involved in road work.

The article further identified the official's wife as an immediate past president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Social Credit League.

The company was said to have changed its name several times, being known variously as Union-Contractors, Bonanza Construction and Continental Construction.

Columbia Plan Lost Friend In Neuberger

Liberals are sorry to hear of the death of Sen. Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon, provincial party leader Ray Perrault said today.

"His death could be a serious blow to a Columbia River agreement. He was the key elected representative in the American Northwest pressing for an agreement," he said.

"Of all the enthusiasts for a Columbia agreement, he was the greatest and his death is most unfortunate."

Philip To Give Bride Away

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret will be married at Westminster Abbey May 6 with the Archbishop of Canterbury officiating. Buckingham Palace announced today.

Prince Philip, husband of the Queen and Margaret's brother-in-law, will give the bride away.

It has been generally expected that Margaret's fiancé, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, will be elevated to the peerage before the wedding takes place.

The palace announcement did not touch on this point, however.

The Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, also was married at the abbey on Nov. 20, 1947. The archbishop, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, head of the Church of England, also officiated at that wedding.

BRIEF ANNOUNCEMENT

Today's brief announcement said:

"The marriage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret with Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones will be solemnized at Westminster Abbey on the morning of Friday, May 6, at 11.30 o'clock."

The statement was dated from Clarence House, London home of the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Accredited court correspondents at Buckingham Palace were officially informed of the national details, including the role to be played by Prince Philip and the archbishop.

Pilot Strafes Indonesia Palace

JAKARTA, Indonesia (CP) — An Indonesian Air Force pilot who strafed President Sukarno's palace here today has been captured by army officials inside rebel-infested West Java territory, air force sources said tonight.

He was identified as Lieut. Daniel Maukar. He bailed out of his MIG-17 jet fighter near Gunung Haruman.

The source said the pilot was on a training flight with other aircraft when he broke away to make the attack on the presidential palace.

Sixteen persons were injured, including a worker and a sentry at Sukarno's Jakarta palace. President Sukarno and his family escaped injury.

Fourteen persons were injured as the young pilot also strafed the resort village of Piliptjning.

ATTACK RUMORED

Rumors swept Jakarta of an attack on the capital's port of Tanjung Priok, and other places in West Java. Cable lines out of the city were also reported cut.

An army spokesman in a public announcement said the government was investigating the shooting and urged Indonesians to "keep calm and trust the government."

Ike Decides Against High Berlin Flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has decided against having U.S. planes make high-level flights to Berlin in defiance of Russian objections, State Secretary Christian A. Herter disclosed today.

Herter said United States, Britain and France are fully agreed they have a right to make flights above 10,000 feet, which Russia insists is an agreed ceiling.

But, he said, the U.S. government now has decided there is no technical necessity for such flights and therefore the president has ruled against them.

Herter made this disclosure when asked at his press conference what he thought about a statement by Soviet Premier Khrushchev recently that the great powers should do nothing now that might hurt prospects for the May summit conference.

Later, Herter said the high-level flight decision had nothing to do with the summit.

He also denied that a firm decision had been made to resume flights above 10,000 feet, although 10 days ago high officials here said the United States, Britain and France had agreed on such a move.

NEW SNOWSTORMS HIT MARITIMES, MIDWEST

HALIFAX (CP) — A howling new storm funneled into the Maritime provinces out of the Atlantic Ocean today, cutting communications and halting traffic.

Telephone, telegraph and cable communication between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland was disrupted.

CHICAGO (AP) — A blinding snowstorm swept across sections of the midwestern and southern United States today. At least two sizeable cities were virtually paralyzed. Small towns were isolated. Roads were blocked and schools were closed.

18 MEN TRAPPED

Tappings Spur Hope at Mine

LOGAN, W.Va. (UPI) — Faint tappings coming from a ventilating shaft five miles from the pit head indicated today that some or all of 18 miners trapped deep in a mine here since early Tuesday may be still alive.

The tappings were confirmed by officials, who investigated after an unidentified boy reported hearing them when he walked past the ventilating shaft.

However, a five-man investigating team which was sent to the shaft reported hearing no sounds and the men were recalled to aid the main rescue force.

The new hope that some of the miners had survived came after rescue workers, who had reached a spot 1,500 feet from the trapped men, said a stubborn, gas-spewing fire which prevented rescue earlier had broken out again.

Herter told a news conference that no consideration is being given at this time to such drastic action despite Premier Fidel Castro's apparent determination to keep trouble stirred up between the two countries.

Herter charged again that Castro has tried to turn grief over the deaths of those killed in the Havana explosion of a munition ship into animosity against the United States.

Glen Harper's Duncan rink, B.C. representatives in the event, remained in the running for the championship by registering its third victory against one loss, downing Nova Scotia 8-5 this afternoon.

In another fifth-round match Manitoba defeated Quebec 8-5.

Saskatchewan and Alberta were hooked up in a scoreless game after three dead ends. Saskatchewan finally took a 1-0 lead on the fourth end. Alberta rallied to score a double on fifth end and go ahead 2-1. Saskatchewan tied it with a single on the sixth, went ahead with two on the seventh and moved into a 3-3 lead with another single in the eighth.

B.C. and Nova Scotia were tied 1-1 after three ends. The Maritimes rink moved in front 2-1 with a single on the fifth end but the Duncan rink forged ahead 4-2 with a big three on the sixth end and added another two on the eighth.

U.S. BREAK WITH CUBA POSSIBLE, SAYS HERTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today the United States eventually might have to consider breaking relations with Cuba, but that he hopes things would never come to that stage.

Herter told a news conference that no consideration is being given at this time to such drastic action despite Premier Fidel Castro's apparent determination to keep trouble stirred up between the two countries.

Herter charged again that Castro has tried to turn grief over the deaths of those killed in the Havana explosion of a munition ship into animosity against the United States.

CNR Offer Too Late ---Bennett

The proposed Wenner-Gren railway between Prince George and the Yukon border will be well under way before the next election, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in an interview this morning.

He was commenting on an Ottawa story stating that CNR president Donald Gordon had twice offered to assist the province in public construction of such a railway. The story said the Ottawa aid would mean a savings of $30,000,000 to the project.

OFFERED TO SELL

"I notice Mr. Gordon says he has written to the province of B.C.," said the premier. He pointed out when the PGE was under construction "we not only sought federal assistance but also CNR assistance on the PGE. We offered to sell it to the CNR."

"We got no co-operation at all. Now, years after, when we have a different railway to build, when we have an agreement with another firm, the CNR comes out belatedly."

But has the government a definite agreement for the Wenner-Gren construction? he was asked.

"You've seen the agreement. It is a binding agreement with individuals," the premier replied.

MUST BE STARTED

(The agreement signed with Wenner-Gren officials states a start must be made on the railway in the second quarter of this year, but the developing company has not yet been formed.) The premier said it doesn't matter as his agreement was with the principals who will form the company.

He was asked how the province could afford to turn down $30,000,000 in assistance.

"It can't save us any money because we are not going to spend any," replied the premier.

It was suggested by reporters that neither would the province make much money from a railway it didn't own.

"The province will make from it. It will be a feeder line to the PGE," said the premier.

The premier said he'd like the federal government to "come clean" on the promised $25,000-a-mile subsidy for the

Go Slow Decision On Pension Plan

BY TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Health Minister Waldo Monteith has strongly indicated the government does not feel Canadians can afford an old age security program equivalent to that of the United States.

In a policy statement on the Clark Report on the U.S. social security system, the minister held out little hope that any changes would be made in the Canadian system of old age pensions for some years.

6% TOTAL
Mr. Monteith said the U.S. program is based on 3 per cent contributions from both employers and employees, totaling 6 per cent of an individual's pay cheque.

"If we were to accept the fact that the average per capita income of Canadians, including those in their active working years, is 30 per cent below that in the U.S., the question that presents itself is this:

"How can we expect, other than establishing contribution rates that are proportionately higher, to achieve a level of pension benefits equal to the American level?"

30% LOWER
The health minister said that "we should ask ourselves in Canada whether or not we are prepared to pay contribution rates which are proportionately higher than those in the U.S. on incomes which are 30 per cent lower in order to achieve parity with the American system."

Another basic difference between the two systems is that in Canada there is one flat-rate pension. In the U.S., the old age payments are based on income. The higher the income, the higher the benefits.

FUNDAMENTAL
"Here we are faced with a fundamental question," he said. "Do we prefer a graduated to a flat system of benefits?"

He said the Canadian system stems from "the principle of subsistence benefits, which Lord Beveridge described as implying that everyone should have bread before anyone has cake."

The alternative is to superimpose a graduated system on top of the flat-rate benefit system.

In other words, there would be a basic payment, and no matter how low their income, no one would receive less. Those in the higher income brackets, who contribute more to the pension fund, would receive additional benefits based on their contribution.

GRADUATED
The British, said Mr. Monteith, have recently amended their flat-rate system, to provide a supplementary graduated system.

And here he gave an indication of the government's go-slow policy.

"We shall, of course, follow further developments relating to the new British plan with the greatest interest."

Now a popular institution, Christmas cards were not generally used until about 1846.
